Mayor speaks out at SEMCOG meeting

Stewart, Lewkowicz blast tax-base sharing proposal

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

Two top-ranking Romulus municipal officials have taken "violent" exception to a proposal before the Michigan State Legislature which they believe could take away a city's incentive to pursue development.

Mayor James C. Stewart and Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz have come out in opposition to a so-called "tax-base sharing" plan, which would require communities undertaking commercial or industrial development after 1976 to split the tax benefits on a 50-50 basis with a regional authority.

"If this isn't communism, then it's socialism, which is a kissing cousin to communism," Stewart fumed. "It's a case of robbing from the rich and giving to the richer—in this case Detroit. We'd be better off in Romulus if we took our undeveloped land and planted corn on it so other communities could support us."

Stewart said the proposal by State Rep. Philip Mastin (D-Hazel Park) is a poorly disguised attempt to send more state aid to the City of Detroit.

"Everyone knows that the suburbs are getting the industrial and commercial development now, and that Detroit has none," Stewart said. "Now the place that gets none of the development is to be benefitted by our improvement."

Lewkowicz added, "There's no incentive to develop under this plan, because a community which undertakes the cost of luring improvements doesn't get the full benefit."

"It makes no sense."

Both Lewkowicz and Stewart voiced their opposition to the bill at a meeting of the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) in Southfield Thursday.

According to Lewkowicz: "The mayor really shocked them with his statements."

"I think they expected no opposition."

Lewkowicz said Stewart accused Mastin to his face of lobbying for the "have not" communities, such as Mastin's district, to the detriment of communities such as Romulus, which can attract development.

"The mayor got his point across," Lewkowicz said. "It was something to see."

Both administrators said they would recommend that the Romulus City Council adopt a resolution similar to one proposed by the City of Novi, which opposes the scheme

'The mayor got his point across. It was something to see' and further urges labor organizations to get involved in fighting it because a slow down in development would cost laborers work.

Under the Mastin proposal, known as House Bill 6010, a district comprising the counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe, St. Clair and Livingston would be set up to share the tax base of any developing community in that region.

A spokesman from Gov. William G. Milliken's office has endorsed the proposal in behalf of the governor. He stated that the plan allows communities to reap some of the benefits from developments in other communities.

Stewart says, however, that the plan would mean communities most prone to development, such as Romulus which has an airport, two major rail lines and two expressways, would be saddled with the costs of developing an area that would accrue only half the benefits normally received.

"I'm not surprised, since the governor apparently has gotten into bed with (Mayor Coleman) Young to help save Detroit," Stewart said Monday. "It looks like now he's gone a step farther than simply donating state help to the city, and is actually going to ask suburban communities to share in the aid for Detroit.

"We take care of our own problems, without help from Detroit, and Detroit should take care of its own problems without help from Romulus and other communities."

Council to get blame for budget delay

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

The mayor of Romulus is laying the groundwork to blame the Romulus City Council for problems the city may encounter in its budget and contract deliberations.

Stewart took time earlier this week to point out that the city council was delinquent in acting on both the city budget as proposed by Stewart and in appointing two representatives to the city's negotiating team.

"I'm concerned about these delays," Stewart said. "I've given the budget to the council, and am unaware of any action the legislative body has taken on the document."

"Likewise, I've asked the council to appoint representatives to the city's negotiating team so they can discuss contract matters with city employees."

Stewart said city administrators have met on one occasion during the past week to discuss contract items with the employees, represented by the International Brotherhood of the Teamsters.

"But the councilmembers were not there, and it will be up to the council to approve the money needed to pay the employees," Stewart said. "I'm hoping the council doesn't get too far behind."

Regarding the budget, Stewart said that council deliberation will be needed quickly on the proposed $4.6 million budget.

The document represents a $100,000 increase in proposed expenditures for municipal operating expenses, but shows some $140,000 in reduced expenses for the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol. The budget also projects a "reasonable increase" for union employees, which may or may not be accepted by the employees' union.

"With these things hanging over the city and requiring council attention, the council should become more involved," Stewart said.

However, despite Stewart's criticisms, councilmembers have privately voiced their concern over becoming involved in what they believe are administrative matters, such as contract negotiations.

Councilmembers have held, as did Stewart when he was a member of the city's legislative body, that it is the administrative function to negotiate contracts, and the council's prerogative to act on the recommendations of the negotiators.

Council members also hold to their right to private deliberations on budget matters prior to calling in administrative personnel for consultation.

The council has until June 30 to approve a city spending document, which also is the same date that the city employees' contract expires.

The sheriff's road patrol contract expires Aug. 1, but service cannot be terminated until one year later.

MILITARY ACADEMY:

Romulus high school senior among first women selected

Romulus Public Library
11121 Wayne Road
Romulus, Mich. 48174

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Enterprise Staff Writer

A "why-not-give-it-a-try" attempt by a local woman to enter an armed services academy has earned a Romulus High School senior potential appointments to two U.S. military schools.

Marjorie Glazier, the second-ranking student in her class will mull offers of scholarships to both the U.S. Air Force Academy and the U.S. Military Academy, to become one of the first women to study at either institution.

The 17-year-old college preparatory student received notification during Easter vacation that both academies were impressed with her mathematical aptitude after she scored in the top one percent of all high school students and the top two percent of those entering college. This ranking was based on the college entrance examination administered to prospective students.

"I'm happy with the announcement," said Miss Glazier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Glazier, of 13615 Cogswell Road, Romulus. "There were only 150 women accepted at the U.S. Air Force Academy out of some 800 who received appointments.

Students cannot be considered for admission to military academies unless they are appointed either by their U.S. Congressmen or Senators or unless they are the daughter or son of a person in the military service.

Miss Glazier is one of two females appointed by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) to receive a bid from a service academy for entrance this fall. The other woman resides in Garden City.

Miss Glazier said she considered entering a military academy, along with the first women ever to be admitted to military schools, after she received a suggestion from a high school counselor to "give it a try."

She had been applying at private and state universities for a Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) scholarship.

"The counselor said if I was interested in ROTC scholarships, I should consider a military academy," Miss Glazier said.

She said she is leaning toward attending the U.S. Air Force Academy in Denver, Colo.,

because the school offers extra academic help to students.

"I received acceptance from the University of Michigan," said the student, "but if I was having difficulties at U-M, I wasn't sure I could get any extra help."

"At the Air Force Academy, a private tutor is provided a student who may need the help."

Miss Glazier is hoping to parlay a high degree of mathematical aptitude into a military career in computer technology.

The honors senior, who will be salutatorian for her graduating class, scored in the top five percent of all graduating seniors in the nation on an "overall performance" level which considers both language and science aptitudes.

"I wasn't too concerned about getting an appointment to a service academy because of my math scores," Miss Glazier said. "But I wasn't sure about being accepted, because I didn't think my overall scores were that good."

"I'm a little weak in English and foreign languages."

Miss Glazier is one of four children, the others are Melvin, 19, a graduate of Romulus High School, and Craig, 16 and Ruth, 15, both students at the high school.

Upon hearing of the Romulus nominee's acceptance at the two military schools, Congressman Ford said, "I'm pleased that a student from my district has the distinguished opportunity to pursue a military career through a military academy."

"It's something any congressman can go to Capitol Hill and be proud of."

Only 150 of some 800 women who received nominations were accepted at the Air Force Academy. In the case of West Point, Miss Glazier is one of 100 women from across the nation selected for admission.

The Air Force admission is conditional on Miss Glazier passing a complete physical examination, something she said "I shouldn't have any trouble with."

And although she said she never seriously considered a military career prior to applying at both service academies, Miss Glazier said, "If I go, I'm committed to five years of active duty after school, so counting the schooling, that would bring the total to nine years in the military service."

"That's a pretty good start on any career."

Army or Air Force?

Marjorie Glazier, a senior at Romulus High School, has been accepted for the first class of women to be enrolled at two U.S. military academies.

County begins push for jail millage

Commissioners vote for new facility

By HENRY CANTIN
Of The Eagle Staff
Wayne County officials this week began an all-out campaign for voter approval of a temporary property tax levy on the May 18 presidential primary ballot to finance a new Wayne County Jail facility, now that the county Board of Commissioners has decided formally to build the structure in downtown Detroit.

The proposed special 5-year property tax levy would be .5 mill (50 cents per $1,000 of state equalized property valuation). The millage would raise a total of about $35 million to fund construction and, according to the ballot proposition for operation of the detention facility. The Board of Commissioners, in a meeting April 21, voted 19-0 in favor of building a new jail one block from the present one. For the third time the county commissioners rejected a private investor group's proposal to convert a downtown warehouse into a jail and sell it to the county.

John Barr, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, at the meeting declared that a new jail must be built, and that the only real question is how the estimated $20.6 million cost will be met.

"Various court rulings, including a 720-prisoner limit at the present jail, make more jail space absolutely mandatory, otherwise, high-risk criminals will be loose on bond while awaiting trial," he said. "So the only real question is how the additional cells will be financed. The wise way is this millage which would cost the average homeowner only 50 cents a month for five years. Then construction can be financed without interest costs.

"If the millage fails, we will have to borrow money through a bond issue. Interest charges will double or triple the cost, and public services will have to be cut in order to make loan payments from existing revenues.

The Board of Commissioners' action occurred after a 7-citizen task force, appointed by the former board chairman, Rosecoe Bobo, split 4-3 on the issue of new construction versus conversion of the former J.L. Hudson Co. warehouse.

"With the task force so divided, it was Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas' strong opposition to the warehouse that tipped the balance," Barr said after the vote.

"After all, the sheriff is responsible for running the jail. He and his staff must live with whatever is produced and they marshalled very convincing arguments against the warehouse proposal."

The Board of Commissioners, acting on advice from the sheriff and the Building Division of the Wayne County Board of Auditors, had rejected two versions of the warehouse proposal in recent months. The commissioners agreed to look again after a third version was developed by a New York architect who specializes in detention facility design.

Lucas and his jail administration staff contended it would take a minimum of 96 more guards to staff the converted warehouse at an additional cost of at least $2,044,800 a year.

"There is no way that warehouse can be renovated to meet our specialized needs as well as new construction can," Lucas maintained.

The Board of Commissioners already had spent $154,000 for preliminary designs, had acquired a construction site, one block south of the present jail, and had earmarked $1.3 million for detailed design when the third version of the warehouse conversion was submitted.

Meanwhile prisoners beyond the court-imposed 720 limit were being housed temporarily in barracks at the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo).

Plans to renovate a now-vacant 3-story psychiatric building on the grounds of the Wayne County General Hospital in Westland to house some 250 prisoners during the three years of construction on the downtown facility are being finalized.

The Board of Commissioners

some weeks ago had appropriated $1.5 million to renovate the building, which is expected to be ready by mid-July.

However, municipal leaders of Westland and Wayne have voiced strong objections to the building of a temporary jail on the grounds of the Wayne County General Hospital.

Upon direction of Westland Mayor Thomas F. Taylor, the City of Westland initiated a lawsuit to prevent such action. A reported "gentlemen's agreement" between county and Westland officials that no construction will begin on M Building until the construction plans are first submitted to Westland was reached soon after the filing of the lawsuit.

Death ends 41 years of service

A long-time Romulus resident and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Romulus has died just days after celebrating the 41st anniversary of his ordination.

The Rev. Grover Cleveland Cline, 84, a nearly 40-year resident of Romulus, died April 19 just four days after he celebrated his 41st anniversary as a minister.

The Rev. Cline, who was born in Flatonia, Tex., on Sept. 12, 1893, was ordained a minister in the Baptist Church while a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church of Detroit on April 14, 1935.

He moved to Romulus shortly afterwards and was named assistant minister of the First Baptist Church of Romulus in May 1937.

He served as either assistant minister or minister of the congregation until his death.

Surviving the Rev. Cline, who was buried following ceremonies at the church last week, are his wife of 55 years, Mamie; a son, Grover Jr.; six grandchildren and "many relatives and friends."

Funeral arrangements for The Rev. Cline were held at the Penn Funeral Home in Inkster.

Military band will play in Bicentennial concert

Van Buren Township is one of only two communities in the Detroit area where the North American Air Defense Command Band will be performing.

In a performance co-sponsored by the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Commission and the 191st Fighter Interceptor Group of the Michigan Air National Guard, the word's only 2-nation military band will be performing at 1 p.m., June 26 in Belleville's Victory Park.

According to M. Sgt. Donald Brown, the information officer for the band, the organization will be performing all types of music from modern to classical and from concert numbers to jazz pieces.

"This isn't just some military band," said Lt. Col. Stephen Kuchta, executive officer of the 191st Interceptor Group and a local insurance salesman. "This band performs the kind of music all people can enjoy. This military band does not perform marches exclusively."

Members of the band, which makes upwards of 300 appearances across the nation, come from both the United States and Canada, to make up the only bi-national military band in the world.

"The idea was to build the band along the lines of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), with the representation on the band proportional to each nation's and each military branch's participation in the defense command," M. Sgt. Brown said.

Kuchta, a long-time member of the 191st "Six-packs" as they are known in the NORAD structure, said the band's appearance not only is designed to mark this year's celebration of 200 years of American Independence in Van Buren Township, but also to publicize the "space-age minutemen" who make up the Michigan Air National Guard.

"Our purpose is to inform the public of the Air National Guard," Kuchta said. "We believe it's an integral part of the nation's air defense, and that it's importance is

'This band performs the kind of music
all can enjoy...'

growing with the move to the all-volunteer armed services."

According to Capt. Michael Potochick, information officer for the 191st Interceptor Group, the "space age minutemen" stationed at Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Michigan maintain a 7-day per week, 24-hour per day "watch" on the nation's defenses even though the manpower at the base is for a large part made up of "parttime soldiers like the guy next door."

"We have salesmen, such as Lt. Col. Kuchta, and truck drivers, professional people and laborers," Capt. Potochick said. "Naturally, we'd like to have more people think about joining the air national guard."

Marilyn Montgomery, co-chairman of the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Commission said she is "excited about this possibility for the township."

"We think the joining of the Bicentennial celebration with a band which represents the original freedom fighters in America is most appropriate," Mrs. Montgomery said. "And added bonus is the exclusiveness of the appearance and yet another is the fact that the band performance is fine entertainment."

Admission to the concert, which will be kicked off by an inspirational rendering of the National Anthem, is free.

Scouts flip flapjacks

The members of Boy Scout Troop 231 of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Belleville will be holding a pancake supper from 5:30-7:30 p.m. next Wednesday at North Junior High School in Van Buren Township.

Cost of the dinner will be $1.75 for adults, $1 for senior citizens and students and 50 cents for preschool youngsters.

Pancakes will be served on an "all-you-can-eat" basis to the diners.

Proceeds from the fund-raising event will be used to send the 20 members of Scout Troop 231 on a trip to Washington, D.D., and Philadelphia for this year's Bicentennial celebration.

Tickets will be available both at the door the night of the dinner and from individual scouts.

In addition to the dinner, the troop will have a display of plants on hand and for sale to visitors.

Ted's gets face-lifting

Ted's IGA Market, located at Eureka and Inkster Roads in Romulus, recently reopened after undergoing extensive renovations. The market, which has been at the same location for 31 years, has doubled the size of its facilities. "We've got anything you can buy in a chain store," said Gregory T. Drake, co-owner of Ted's IGA Market, together with his father, Ted Drake. "We've enlarged all our departments." — ANP photos.

Nearing completion

van Buren's gain, this building designed to house the Elden Chevrolet Dealership, is Belleville's loss, as the dealership will be leaving its location on Huron River Drive in the city. Workers are nearing completion of the dealership located on 30 - acres of land on the north I-94 Service Drive. City officials in Belleville then will wrestle with the problem of finding some business to fill what will be one of the largest commercial buildings in the community. — ANP photo.

Two industrial arts students collect state contest honors

Two students from Belleville High School have received honors in recent competition at the Michigan Industrial Arts State Fair, held in Port Huron earlier this month. Sponsored by the Michigan Industrial Education Society and a metropolitan daily newspaper, the fair honored Jerry Townsend who earned the top honor in the machine crafts division with this entry of a telephone-ash tray-lighter set. Also earning a state award was Alan Statham who was awarded a sixth-place honor. He had netted a second-place finish in regional competition with his antique telephone made of aluminum.

Other Belleville High School students collecting awards at the regionals were Jim Heikes, a second-place finisher, and Gary McDaniel, a third-place winner. Both were in the models division, submitting entries made of solid aluminum. Pat Johnson finished first in the non-moveable parts machine shop division, and Mike Jordan finished second. Other entries in the machine crafts division were Richard Mroz, Rick Sword, and John Jacobs. Mroz placed third and Sword fourth. All the students are under the tutelage of teacher Paul LaForest, who is an instructor in the vocational machine shop at the high school. The students who entered projects in the regional competition will receive a personal recognition and appreciation certificates.

Owen panel quizzes Kelley, Miss Clark

State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-22nd-District), chairman of the Special House Committee to Investigate the Department of Licensing and Regulation, has announced that the committee will be providing the materials, which an initial staff report is based, to Attorney General Frank Kelley and Department of Licensing and Regulation Director Beverly Clark simultaneously for their comments before the final report is drafted. "Because both Kelley's and Miss Clark's departments are the subject of criticism in the report, each will be provided with an opportunity to respond in writing and in person before the full committee," Owen said. "A tentative date of April 30 has been set to meet with representatives of the Attorney General's office, while May 3 has been scheduled for the committee to meet with Director Beverly Clark and her employees." "Following receipt of the written comments and personal appearances, the committee members will submit a final report," Owen added. "Our investigation has strengthened the committee's belief that there is a need to abolish some licensing acts, to overhaul the investigatory functions, and to make a number of other organizational changes." Owen indicated that he expected the report to be printed the latter part of May or the first part of June in its final form.

Living longer

A brisk early morning jog is a great way for this young woman to keep her figure trim and slim, and it could also be one of the keys to a healthier heart, according to the American Heart Association and the National Sporting Goods Association. Both are sponsoring "Put Your Heart Into Sports Month" this month, a national public service program designed to encourage people to exercise for the sake of their hearts.

Exercise You can live longer

By GERRY LEMPICKI
Eagle Staff Writer

Are you the type of person who hops into his car and drives the block or so to the store for a loaf of bread instead of walking? Do you take the elevator rather than face climbing a flight of stairs?

Is your idea of exercise the two-minute dash to the refrigerator during commercial breaks in your favorite television program?

If your answer is "yes" to any of these questions, chances are you are not getting the exercise you need. It is a medical fact that people who lead sedentary lives run a greater risk of heart attack or stroke than those who lead active ones.

Heart disease claims more lives in the United States each year than all other causes of death combined. It kills more than one million Americans and afflicts 28 million more.

How can you decrease the risk of being included in that 28 million figure each year? One way is to exercise.

According to Dr. Nanette K. Wenger, vice-president of the American Heart Association, only certain exercises can lead to a healthy heart, and then only when they are done regularly.

These exercises include vigorous walking, stationary or regular cycling, swimming, jogging, running, rope jumping, badminton, tennis and golf, but only if you walk and pull your own cart. For those in good physical condition, sports such as handball, squash, racquetball and paddleball are recommended.

Exercises such as these should be undertaken only after getting permission from your doctor. Also, says Dr. Wenger, people over 35 should take an exercise tolerance test before beginning a program of exercise.

A regular exercise program should follow an every-other-day schedule. Three times a week is usually enough. In four to six weeks, a noticeable improvement should be seen.

As your fitness level continues to improve, you must increase the vigor of your exercising or you will not make further improvement. For example, if you have been jogging a mile every day, increase the distance. Or if jogging becomes too easy, try running.

Most people will reach their top physical condition in three to six months. Once this level is reached, it can only be maintained by regular workouts.

But take it easy. Over-exercising can be as bad or even worse than not exercising enough, Dr. Wenger warns. You should set a pace for yourself at each level of improvement and stick to it.

Some people will say that they are too busy for a regular physical fitness program, but this is no excuse to avoid exercising. Don't pass up those every day opportunities to get in a little extra physical activity.

Instead of riding the bus all the way in to work, get off three or four blocks early and walk the rest of the way. Or walk to lunch instead of taking a cab. Or walk up that flight of stairs instead of using the elevator.

Separately these things may seem small, but they add up to a healthier happier feeling, well worth the extra time and effort. So happy exercising!

To prevent childhood diseases

Health officials urge vaccination

The Wayne County Health Department is advising parents to check their children's immunization records and take advantage of free measles immunization clinics, if the youngsters have not had the vaccine.

In an effort to prevent an epidemic of measles, which has threatened Detroit and out-county communities, the measles shot is recommended for all youngsters who have not had the vaccination.

In addition, children who had inoculations before 1 year of age should get another shot, health officials stress.

"Children who received the vaccine before 1 year of age should have it repeated," a county health official said. "We've had many cases of children vaccinated before that age coming down with the measles, so that shot was not offering the effective protection."

The immunizations are given at the Wayne County Health Clinic adjacent to Wayne County General Hospital on Merriman Road north of Michigan Avenue in Westland. The clinic hours, when children can be immunized free, are from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; and from 1 to 8 p.m. Wednesdays.

The shots are for the "hard" measles which can cause severe illness, or disability, in some cases. Shots also are available for the milder "3-day" measles, known as rubella, which is less harmful for children, but can cause serious birth defects if contracted by pregnant women.

Parents also can contact their own doctor for the immunizations if they choose, or visit the walk-in clinic without an appointment.

Consumer Protection Agency collects $25,000 supplement

The Wayne County Consumer Protection Agency, a unit of the Prosecutor's Office, has announced that the Wayne County Board of Supervisors has approved a supplementary budget of $25,000 to enable the agency to hire an additional attorney and secretary on staff.

The Prosecutor's Office requested additional funding after the Commissioners approved a budget effective December 1st which cut the consumer staff in half. The agency at that time was forced to cut back its services by referring many complaints to other, often less effective, recourses.

Prosecutor William L. Cahalan said he was pleased with the Commissioners' later consideration of the consumer unit's budget and announced that the office will begin soon to handle more complaints itself.

The consumer office has the capabilities of pursuing legitimate consumer complaints with mediation, civil or criminal action. In addition, a public education arm of the office offers advice and information to individual consumers and makes speakers available to community groups.

To file a complaint or ask for information, Wayne County residents can call 224-2150 weekdays.

Cancer testing offered

Project CODAC (Community Outreach Detection and Care) will be sponsoring free Pap test clinics in two locations in the Belleville-Romulus community May 5 and May 25 and 26.

The service is provided by the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the American Cancer Society.

The clinics will be at St. Paul's Church, 19109 Craig New Boston, on May 5 and at the Romulus Wesleyan Church, 37300 Goddard, May 25-26.

The hours for the New Boston clinic will be 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., with the Romulus clinic hours set for from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 25 and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 26.

The Pap test is a simple and painless examination, which reliably can detect cervical cancer in its early curable stages. Every woman more than 18 years of age should have a Pap test once a year. Appointments for the CODAC clinics can be made by calling 833-6783 or 833-6784.

Telethon volunteers are needed

Sponsors of this year's 4th Annual Soupy Sales Telethon for the Retarded have issued an urgent plea for volunteers to man telephones during the 2-day charitable project.

This year's telethon will be held on June 5-6 at the East Eight Mile Road Armory, located in Detroit, according to Edward Schilvin, project's founder.

The 20-hour live television event will be on WKBD TV-50 and will begin at 8 p.m. June 5 and continue to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Persons wishing to assist this worthwhile cause by volunteering are asked to call 964-4453.

As we see it

Crime compensation plan is impractical

A proposal by a Detroit police officer to compensate crime victims is excellent in theory but impractical in its application.

It is impractical to have criminals pay back their victims or the victims' families, and impractical to have a unit of government do it.

The police officer has devised a plan whereby criminals would be forced to pay back their victims—ranging from $10,000 for car theft to $100,000 for murder.

The Public Safety and Judiciary Committee of the Wayne County board of Commissioners recently held a hearing on the proposal and came away mixed. Some parts of the concept seemed favorable, others didn't.

Under the plan persons convicted of crimes would be required to work in manufacturing operations established in prisons, with the proceeds from their labor going to their victims or the victims' surviving family.

One argument against this was that it placed the emphasis on establishing jobs in the wrong place. Considering that unemployment is the primary reason why crime is committed, how can one create jobs in prison when he cannot seem to create jobs for these people before they get to prison?

More to the point is the fact that you can't make a man or woman work in or out of prisons, so the only realistic plan would be one supported by government, which means the taxpayers would pick up the tab.

And then there are the unions. How long would union leaders be expected to sit still when convicted criminals are being provided with paying jobs while their own law-abiding members are out of work. And don't forget prison employees. They naturally would object to well paying jobs for prisoners.

Simply stated most criminals had very little money to begin with, or were members of families receiving public aid. What money they did earn probably was garnished.

Another fact, brought out at the hearing, was that probationers repay the court very little, if any.

Despite the obvious impracticalities of the plan, something must be done for the victims of crime, therefore we are happy to see that the county committee is evaluating the merits of three other crime compensation plans.

A man who was a victim of a robbery in which he was shot four times made an eloquent plea during the hearing. He said:

"A criminal is given shelter, free legal advice, but nothing is done to assist the victim. We feel that the rights of all people must be observed, not only those of the criminal. Right now the victim gets nothing but sympathy. His rights should never be exceeded by those of the criminal."

We couldn't have said it better.

Poetry Corner

In a Rut

I read the newspaper every day.
Most articles are so depressing.
A body found in the woods it laid,
Who did it, someone's guessing.

Then I read food prices up,
and I can't manage now.
I'm getting deeper in a rut,
that I'll never get out no how.

Then I read turn your furnace down,
then I can sit and freeze.
All us poor can do is frown
while others put on the squeeze.

I read about our kids so bad.
But I got news for you,
that on our road I am so glad that bad kids are so few.

I read to turn your lights off and electricity not to waste.
And yet the bills get higher,
Someone ain't got good taste.

Then I read gasoline goes up,
and that's our only pleasure.
It's no wonder we're in a rut,
we've nothing left to treasure.

The price of clothes have gone
skyhigh,
and we have to wear the old.
When will things go back again,
to the good old days I know?

Price of stamps have now gone up.
Can't we even write a letter?
Or do we stay right in our rut,
so the big shots can have it better.

Our good old days are surely gone.
Things just are not the same.
Seems like everything is wrong,
and hardships surely came.

Lottery tickets people surely buy.
They're broke and trying to win.
Scratch 'em off and give a sigh,
my dollar was spent in sin.

Work for men just can't be found,
Now we do without so much for our county. This is wrong.
We look but just can't touch.

At least our friends no one can take or push the price skyhigh.
The love of all our friends, no fake,
and we've got happiness with pride.

600-year-old problem still needs attention

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Enterprise-Roman Staff Writer

'Its capabilities have been demonstrated on uncounted individuals, and has proven fatal whether the victim has a heart condition.'

It's with some admiration for their wisdom that we viewed the swift action by Michigan's state legislators to ban the use of the "Taser gun" before it's given a controlled trial testing period.

Billed by its designers as a different means for incapacitating people and as a potential police weapon, the gun was recently banned from sale and use until the Michigan State Police could assess the impact of its use.

Because the legislative concern is that the Buck Rogersish electrical contraption could cause "serious permanent harm, supporters of the legislation said the weapon should be banned, according to a press release from the State Senate.

In case the reader hasn't heard, the Taser is actually a dart gun which fires two electrodes up to 18 feet at a victim. A small generator attached to the electrodes is capable of developing up to 50,000 volts of electrical charge which can temporarily immobilize a person by short-circuiting his neuro-muscular system when activated.

Designers of the weapon claim the damage is temporary and eventually wears off, unless the victim has a heart condition which could be fatally aggravated by the sudden electrical jolt or takes a dart in the eye.

The theory behind researching the potential of the weapon is good, and maybe should be carried over to some less-exotic firearms, such as those powered by a controlled explosive charge in a tube called "Handgun."

In case the reader hasn't heard, the Handgun or Firearm as it also is called is actually a dart gun which fires one heavy dart or uncountable numbers of heavy darts up to several miles in some instances near or above the speed of sound.

No wires are needed to activate the weapon once it strikes its target, since the capability to immobilize a person is carried inside the dart's design itself based upon its shape, weight and speed.

Designers of the weapon assert that damage caused by it hitting a target is certain, permanent and has the potential of paralyzing, maiming or killing at any firing.

Some of the darts are so designed that even striking an extremity of a target (person), such as an arm or leg, could cause a concussion so severe that the victim dies on impact, or at least loses the limb.

And if the legislature checks, it doesn't have to take time to laboratory test the weapon under controlled conditions, because it's been in use for more than 600 years and has been tested in all sorts of circumstances, and locations, such as large open fields, parade routes, political campaign rallies, banks, sporting goods stores, homes, factories and laboratories.

It's capabilities have been demonstrated on uncounted individuals, and has proven fatal whether the victim has a heart condition, is hit in the eye or is in the best of health.

But somehow, despite the track record, the legislature doesn't seem to grasp the idea that the Handgun or Firearm is available to the general public, either above or under the counter at prices anyone can afford.

Apparently what we're seeing with the legislative action on the Taser is the legislature trying to assess the impact of this new weapon on humanity.

After 600 years, even the legislature knows what the old handgun or firearm dart gun can do and knows what to expect with its use.

Publishing old letter makes for red faces

By BOB COCHRANE
Editor of Enterprise-Roman

Hoo boy, is our face red!

The publication in last week's edition of the Enterprise-Roman of an old letter to the editor which inadvertently appeared on the editorial page is the cause of our dilemma.

A once in a lifetime occurrence, but, by golly, it happened, much to our embarrassment.

The ancient letter, written by Wendell K. Howell, of Belleville, concerned a controversy that occurred approximately 10 years ago regarding the rezoning of land located on the north shore of Belleville Lake for a proposed multiple residential development.

The letter actually had been published then, during that rezoning squabble, which long has been settled.

Now, we were left with three outs. When it was called to our attention we figured we could pass off the incident as our contribution to the nation's 200th birthday. Reprinting several "old vintage" communications might lend just the right Bicentennial touch.

And then it was suggested that we could say we purposely printed the letter to test our readers' alertness.

But after having several second thoughts we decided to admit that we just "plain goofed."

How the letter ever appeared on my desk along with several others is a mystery. But as is the procedure, with letters that have been edited, they were sent through to our typesetters.

Being new to the area I must sheepishly admit that I had not been familiar with that controversy and assumed that the letter was directed at some present-day minor rezoning problem. After all, why was the letter on my desk, if it wasn't to be published. Checking its authenticity, as we do on occasion, was fruitless because there was no telephone listing.

(We later learned that the writer had long left the area.)

The only explanation as to how the letter reached my desk was that it apparently was inadvertently taken from one of our reporters' old letters to the editor file and mistakenly mixed in with recent letters and other releases that were to be published.

At any rate the old letter was reprinted, much to our consternation.

The incident did serve to reinforce one very vital point, however. Never, never, never assume anything, especially in the newspaper business.

You could end up looking like an idiot.

Inflation making U.S. economy sick

To the editor:

Inflation, Inflation, Inflation. Some people want more and more money for less and less work. And the inflation is going up. The poor are getting poorer and sicker and the rich are getting richer and sicker!

America is approaching an economic disaster never conceived by anyone in America. The American economy is very sick, sick, sick and all the two Republican presidential aspirants talk about is more defense spending and detente with Russia. They don't have any detente with the American economy but they are not worried about that.

America's great cities like Ancient Rome are burning and perishing slowly because of unfair cost demands, and Ford and Reagan are playing the same Russian violin and tune which the Republicans have been playing for years and years. And while America is being consumed by the flames of inflation and higher wages and prices, Ford and Regan, like Nero, play happily on their Russian violins.

Today, less and less people are working and yet some people who are working are working for more and more money and, inflation is still rising and rising. And the more and more laid-off people are being thrown on the welfare.

In the meantime, some of the people who are still working are trying to kill the people who are not working by demanding that their own wages and prices go higher and higher. "Can you all recall the days of the nickel raise?" Can you imagine anybody striking for a raise of two dollars a half an hour? Something certainly must be wrong! And our President and governor and senators don't say a word. America is heading for its doom and all our President does is lie and smile and waste energy.

Half the people who are working in America are earning less than three dollars an hour while some groups of people who are earning over seven dollars an hour and more may be demanding a raise of almost three dollars cost an hour! Can you imagine what that will cost every unemployed and employed person in America at the super market? And that may only be the beginning of the sick wage and price spiral. Have you heard about Argentina? Mrs. President or Italy or England's inflation today?

And then there are the millions of people (neighbors) who are working a full week but because our economy is so warped they cannot pay their living expenses. There are many millions of people who are earning less than $100 a week! That was once a very very good wage if you can recall. Out of that hundred a week, at least $30 will go for taxes and social security. Gas will cost $10. Car payments and maintenance will average another $10. Food will average $20 and subsequently there might remain $30, correct? Now will anyone tell me how a person can ever buy a car, car insurance, health insurance, pay dental costs, smoke, pay rent, or buy clothes with $30 a week? And prices are still going up!

I pray that our President and the higher wage hikers please stop and consider what is happening and is going to happen to the rest of the people of our America! Everywhere you turn our industry especially in Michigan is either leaving our cities, or going bankrupt! Nobody has to be an economist to understand that everything has a price and that if its price is too high nobody can buy it! And that industry or business and its labor is lost!

More than half the people of America cannot afford to pay the higher and higher prices caused by pay increases. It may sound beautiful to be able to say that some folks are earning more while we are all working less—but then we are all doomed as Germany was after World War I, when Hitler walked in to take over. Retarded leadership, greed and inflation destroyed Germany then and it can destroy America tomorrow!

Steven Demetros.

Taxpayers paying for classes already funded, lawmaker says

To the Editor:

Perhaps you and your readers are aware that I have introduced legislation to establish a new state policy of not over-funding leisure time classes at Michigan community colleges. There is currently considerable misinformation being spread throughout the state about my efforts and those of others including the Governor to stop a program that is currently giving you and I a double dip in cost.

Let me give you a quick bit of background information. Presently, the state of Michigan is fully funding all leisure time or institutional credit classes being offered by community colleges. These courses include: belly dancing, slimnastics, painting, macrame, bridge and others. Even if the most conservative estimates are used, the cost to the State would be over $7 million each year.

To this point everything is fine.

Now the problem is complicated because often there will be a joint agreement between the community colleges and the K-12 school districts. The K-12 school district will run the leisure time courses and the community college will handle the administration. The student is charged a fee for attending the class when state money has already been made available to pay for the class, so the taxpayer in effect is forced to pay twice for the same class. The only winner is the community college and the K-12 school district who then share the state money.

To reiterate, the taxpayer is helping to fund these leisure time classes that generally have already been paid for by the participating student. Now I learn that some community college presidents are attempting to get support from adult students for continued state subsidies for these programs. Obviously, they like the extra money being provided for these programs.

In the first instance, I am upset by the double dip procedure and want it stopped. I think you would agree and would want it stopped also. Secondly, I am disturbed by attempts to perpetuate this kind of—as yet—legal, but morally questionable, practice. I believe that these courses should be offered. However, I also believe that they should be self-supporting and leave state aid to provide basic educational programs as a first priority.

I am not attempting to do away with enrichment courses. I am attempting to establish funding priorities in our schools and to insure that you and I, as taxpayers, are not being used for the purpose of gaining additional funds for your school districts.

Israel would consider using atomic weapons

By PATRICK J. BUCHANAN
New York Times News Service

PANAX OPINIONS

WASHINGTON — In the 17th Century, Louis XIV had stamped upon the royal cannon the Latin inscription, "ultima ratio regum," the last argument of the king.

For 30 years, the atomic bomb has been the ultima ratio of the west. Now it is the last argument that will be raised on behalf of Israeli survival.

Time Magazine's report that the Israelis built, dispersed and considered using atomic weapons during the dark hours of the Yon Kippur war in 1973 is unsurprising. Given the contraction of U.S. power, the geographic and political isolation of Israel, her limited resources and manpower, the decision was inevitable.

The Israelis are the pre-eminent realists of the west. Daily proximity to peril prevents over-indulgence in the woolly-headed delusions that still hold sway in the European democracies and the United States.

Agree or disagree with their policy, the Israelis do not allow eloquent tributes to "non-intervention" to interfere with their sovereign right to maintain secure and stable frontiers. They do not apologize for the use of force to repress riots. They do not ask U. N. permission when they believe the time has come to march. And they have not allowed "world opinion" to prevent the building of weapons vital to their national survival.

With this news the Arab world, militant and moderate, should know these stakes involved in another war. Before Israel is destroyed, Arab armies and Arab cities may perish in the holocaust. This time, the Jews will not go quietly.

The introduction of atomic weapons may have a sobering effect upon all involved. Arab generals have a persuasive argument against the secret massing of armor and artillery for a surprise attack. Arab statesmen have a cold towel to apply to the hotheads of the "rejection front" dreaming yet of a Jihad which will throw the Israelis into the sea.

We shall read in coming weeks about this dangerous escalation of the Middle East arms race. But in building such weapons the Jews are doing nothing more than Churchill was prepared to do, when he contemplated using poison gas on the beaches against Hitler's invaders coming by sea.

Since the Cuban missile crisis, "better red than dead," Bertrand Russell's phrase, appears to have become the "bottom line" of many Western policy-makers. The message conveyed by the Israeli decision to go nuclear represents a rejection of that philosophy. The message conveyed is that to the generation in power, the existence of Israel is more important than life itself; nuclear war is to be accepted before acquiescence in the dismemberment or death of the Jewish state.

Had the West been as resolute throughout the cold war and cold peace, it would not confront its present perilous condition. Mr. Truman, one recalls never gave it a second thought when he dropped the atomic bomb on the defenseless city of a defeated nation. Faced with hundreds of thousands of Chinese "volunteers," overrunning U.S. soldiers and marines on the frozen landscape of North Korea, he chilled — and watched the massacre proceed.

Temporarily the Israelis may feel the security of Hillaire Belloc's couplet:

Whatever happens we have got
The Maxim Gun and they have not.

But with this news, surely, an energetic effort will begin in the Arab world to match the Israeli accomplishment. As a consequence the Middle East may become a place where large-scale land warfare is ruled out by the presence of atomic weapons, but a place also where debilitating assault by subversion, terror and guerrilla war is constant.

With the United States backing away from Soviet imperialism, one should not be surprised if this smaller, more vulnerable and more resolute of the anti-Communist states — South Africa, South Korea and Taiwan follow the Israeli example.

They have every reason. Jimmy Carter, as president, would withdraw atomic weapons from Korea and all U. S. troops in four or five years. Henry Jackson would rush to recognize Peking, and thereby break diplomatic relations with Taiwan. And no American president or Congress could be counted upon to assist South Africa in a military struggle against a Soviet-supported race war.

All three would be well-advised to build their own atomic deterrent — if they have not done so already.

'African problems can be solved without blood bath'

By TOM OCHILTREE

Panx Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—South African Ambassador Roelof Frederik Botha insists African problems can be solved without a blood bath if the world can convince the Soviet Union to avoid further neo-col moves on that continent.

Addressing leading members of the Washington Press Corps at an American Security Council luncheon recently, Botha denied the often repeated claim that time was running out for the Republic of South Africa.

"Time is never running out for an individual or a nation if it believes in itself and in its destiny," he said.

Botha conceded that Africa, in the light of the Soviet-Cuba intervention in Angola, is poised on a knife edge. In the end though, he said, he believed the peoples of the southern part of Africa, unless they are organized and inflamed from outside, "will not choose the way or violence because the price that would have to be paid would be too terrible to contemplate."

He urged Africans and peoples everywhere to face the fact that the Russians and their Cuban mercenary allies are seeking to return Africa to colonialism in a way unique in this century.

Soviet officials with their free wheeling Cuban troops could cut a 1,000 mile wide path from ocean to ocean across Africa if Moscow believes it could get away with such an action, Botha said.

He pictured Soviet intervention in Angola as part of a master Russian plan to gain "key points of control over the world's oceans."

Botha claimed South Africa's own intervention in Angola was misrepresented in the United Nations and by much of the world media.

His government, Botha continued, did not seek conquest in Angola but entered the southern part of that county to protect the vital hydro-electric dam at Calueque on the Cunene River after the outgoing Portuguese colonial authorities proved unequal to the task.

"Any involvement of South Africa beyond that," he said, "developed after it became apparent that the Soviet Union and Cuba were intervening on a massive scale."

Yet while the Russians and Cubans have been fighting and defeating African native armies, it became the fashion in the United Nations and elsewhere "to take my country by the neck, shake it and blame it for everything that happened in Angola."

He found fault with some aspects of American policy in that regard but refused, in answer to a direct question, to say whether the U.S. State Department had "misled South Africa on Angola."

Concerning South Africa's controversial racial policies, the ambassador conceded that his country had made mistakes but was now moving to remove the racial irritations of the past. He added:

"The picture presented in the outside world of racial relations in South Africa is distorted out of all proportion...our detractors purposely seek to conceal the goodwill which exists between black and white in South Africa in their day to day contact."

Botha was named South Africa's permanent representative to the United Nations in September, 1974, and became ambassador to Washington a year later. In contrast to the low profile maintained by his predecessors, Botha believes in meeting head-on the criticisms often directed at his country. His luncheon speech was an exercise in that direction.

Republican unity ruptured over Ford defense budget

Washington—A major rupture in Republican Party unity over the Ford administration's defense budget has surfaced between two key GOP members of the House of Representatives, John B. Anderson, of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, and Jack Kemp of New York, a key GOP member on the House Appropriations Committee, that deals directly with defense appropriations.

The clash, secret until now, is contained in a "confidential" letter written by Kemp to Anderson, dated March 24, 1976, and circulated to GOP House members. A copy has been obtained exclusively by this correspondent. Kemp accused Anderson of making public statements that "may undercut our Republican President" in the House on the forthcoming Congressional battle over the nation's defense appropriations that is expected to heat up now that Congress has returned from its Easter recess.

On March 4, Anderson, in a public statement, accused Ronald Reagan of attacking U.S. defense policy "for reasons that are seemingly narrow and political." The Republican presidential challenger had earlier accused the Ford administration of allowing U.S. defense to become inferior to the Soviet Union because of its policy of detente.

Kemp, considered a Ford administration supporter but who has not yet announced his GOP presidential preference, told Anderson in the confidential letter that "I must take exception to aspects of your news release, specifically your statement that our qualitative lead provides a credible deterrence around the world against the Soviet threat." The upstate New York Republican went on to dispute Anderson's argument, stating that the issue "is not where we are at this moment in time but where we will be in a few years' time. If we make the relevant comparison and look at the trends," Kemp continued, "then the U.S. does not clearly have a defense posture second to none."

The four-page, single-spaced confidential letter is being viewed here less as political support for Ronald Reagan's campaign as it is more the manifestation of fear on the part of Ford administration supporters like Kemp that the White House will not make an all-out fight in the pending defense budget battle. It is feared that this GOP split will weaken Republican attempts to defeat Democratic moves to make substantial cuts in the Ford administration's defense requests for Fiscal Year 1977.

Indirectly Kemp accused Anderson, thus the Ford administration, of weakening our defense position partly because of its support of detente. "The weakness inherent in our position," stated Kemp, "is obvious, and it is partly a result of the psychology of detente which works against the will of the American people to support adequate defense budgets because of a tendency of the people to see detente as all that is necessary for security. These psychological effects do not operate in the Soviet Union where detente is explained as forced change of U.S. policy as a result of Soviet military power."

"I believe our perception of the Soviet threat," Kemp added, "as well as our approach to national security is deficient for not taking into account that Soviet thinking and values do not mirror our own. Whether our forces will turn out to be second to none will depend on how realistic we are about the Soviet threat."

Republican members in both the House and Senate concerned about the forthcoming fight over the defense budget are fearful that the Ford administration will put up less than an all-out fight for two basic reasons. Kemp, for example, in his letter to Anderson expressed both of those concerns. First, that the Ford administration has apparently indicated to the Soviets that its defense requests are based on the assumption that there will be a Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement. Kemp cited the recent testimony of Defense Secretary Rumsfeld and Joint Chiefs of Staff Brown acknowledging this possibility.

"It is a matter of concern to me," Kemp stated, "that at a time when the Soviets are making a major effort to develop 10 new Intercontinental Ballistic Missile systems, we are relying on reciprocal arms control accords to maintain our strategic posture."

The second concern of Kemp and other Republicans is that the Democratic opposition will prevail with the President, namely that domestic social welfare programs are of a greater priority than national defense.

"Even if the defense budget survives the social welfare priorities of the budget committees and congressional liberals," Kemp pointed out in his letter, "in real terms the fiscal year 1977 defense budget is less than the fiscal year 1964 defense budget. Since 1964 the defense budget has fallen drastically both as a percentage of the federal budget and as a percentage of the gross national product."

The "confidential letter" to Anderson is being viewed by some here as a challenge to Anderson's leadership of the House Republican Conference headed by the liberal Illinois Republican. Sources say that the unprecedented letter by Kemp, not normally an interparty distruber of the peace, was prompted by the unwillingness of the White House to place someone in the defense budget leadership fight who could carry out "in action not just words" the pledges of the administration to fight for a strong 1977 defense budget.

These sources point out further that Anderson's attack on Reagan, while political, comes from a liberal who voted last year and again just on April 8 to make substantial cuts in the authorization for new weapons systems like the B-1 bomber.

Because of his record and the Ford administration's drive to secure a SALT agreement, many Republicans fear that the current split in the ranks of the GOP in the House and Senate could give the Democrats a decisive advantage in the forthcoming defense budget battle.

Study Club looks at American flags

The Women's Study Club of Belleville perused the history of American flags when it met recently at the Lemontree Clubhouse for its regular monthly meeting.

The Home Life Department of the club was in charge of the meeting, using the theme of "Spirit of '76." Hostesses for the evening were Alice Patterson, Nora Bird, Wilma Petraskey and Pat Baughman.

Refreshments were served during the meeting and carried out the scheme of the red, white and blue theme in individual cheesecakes, the centerpiece and flags.

Mrs. Baughman introduced the speaker, Mrs. Gordon Hay of Livonia, who discussed the history of the American flags from before the use of red, white and blue in the national banner. She used a sound movie in her lecture.

A business meeting followed the speaker and was conducted by president Mrs. Don White, who heard reports from the different department chairmen.

The next meeting of the club will be in May and will be the annual gathering.

Mother, bride create gown

A gown, made by the bride and her mother, marked the afternoon nuptial rite of Kathy L. Patterson of Belleville and Pfc. Edmund H. Wanshon Jr. of Ypsilanti.

The bride chose a white gown of polyester satin for the April 3 wedding. A high bodice and V-neckline were trimmed in pearl and lace as was the princess line skirt. Lace sleeves with cuffs and long lace train, attached at the waist, also complimented the gown.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Patterson of Savage Road, Belleville, also wore a waist length veil, attached to a lace and pearl headpiece and carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

The bride was given away by her father in the ceremony, officiated by Fr. Mitchell Bednarski at St. Ursula Catholic Church of Ypsilanti.

The bride asked her friend Debbie Barnes of Belleville to act as her maid of honor. She wore a gown of kelly green with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. The gown had a kelly green striped midriff that fell into a flared skirt. She wore a white picture-brim hat with green ribbons and carried a basket of white carnations in green, baby's breath and daisies.

Bridesmaids for the ceremony were Tina Turbiak, cousin of the groom and Denise Patterson, sister of the bride. The junior bridesmaids were Vickie and Toni Wanshon, sisters of the groom. Their gowns and flowers matched that of the honor attendant.

The ringbearer and flower girl for the wedding were Edward Cyganski, 4, of Ypsilanti, and Sherry Patton, 4, of Ypsilanti, niece of the bride. Sherry wore also a kelly green gown with striped midriff and A-line skirt and carried a basket of flowers like the other attendants.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Wanshon Sr. of Heather Ridge, Ypsilanti, asked Brian Colwell of Belleville to act as his best man. Ushers for the ceremony were Paul Wanshon, brother of the groom and Thadeus Wanshon of Westland, cousin of the groom.

For the afternoon ceremony, Mrs. Patterson wore a long yellow dress with a short, fitted, yellow lace jacket. Her corsage was yellow-tipped white carnations.

Mrs. Wanshon chose a long turquoise dress with a short, sheer, fitted floral jacket and wore a corsage of white carnations tipped in turquoise.

Some 275 guests attended the wedding reception at the Romulus Progressive Hall, before the bride and groom left for a 6-day honeymoon in Miami Beach, Fla.

Following the honeymoon Pfc. Wanshon returned to Aschaffenberg, Germany, where he is stationed. The new Mrs. Wanshon will be following her husband to Europe at a later date.

Mrs. Wanshon will graduate from Belleville High School this year. Her husband is a 1974 graduate of the school.

Set for Kensington Metropark

HCMA plans for children's farm, village

A historic barn — once used as a carpenter shop — in Kensington Metropark near Milford soon will become part of a new facility known as the Kensington Children's Farm and Village.

The new project covers about 100 acres, bordering the Huron River, and located near the park administration building. Construction already has started on renovation of the barn and footings poured for another building, with the project consisting first of development of the farm and then later construction of an old-time village.

"Estimated cost of the project is about $2.5 million, and will be developed by a group of private investors who have entered into a 25-year contract with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority," said David O. Laidlaw, authority director.

Development of the project is by the Kensington Children's Farm, a private corporation, consisting of president Michael B. Ternes of Standard Steel Treating Co. of Detroit and vice-president Lloyd Heussner, who is constructing a Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealership in Brighton.

Duane Girback, Livingston County Extension agent, will advise on animal care, while Paul Shoemaker, formerly with the Redford School District, is the educational advisor.

Lincoln Friend, of Southfield, will be general manager of the Children's Farm and Village.

Presently, the project includes restoration of the existing barn, construction of a farmhouse, smoke house, chicken coop, corn crib, wagon shed, sugar house plus the addition of farm animals and farm implements. Pony and wagon rides might be available later and perhaps the development will include a train, of the late 1800s vintage, rides. Operations may begin later this year.

However, the village portion of the project will be done later and may include an old-fashioned firehouse, horse-drawn engines, church, town hall and shops.

Laidlaw pointed out that the Children's Farm and Village will revert to the authority at the conclusion of the 25-year contract and 10-year optional extension. Owners of the project will pay the authority a rent, based on a percentage of the gross from this facility operation. He said no fee has been determined for admittance, but nominal fees are expected to be charged. A food service operation will be provided at the site.

This is the first venture of this type on such a large scale where the Huron-Clinton Metropark system and private business are working cooperatively to supply additional recreational facilities for area citizens.

With a land acquisition program underway to meet the needs of the region by the 1990s, the Huron-Clinton funds for capital improvements "are limited" according to Laidlaw, who noted that the authority has selected this course of action to supply and operate new recreation facilities.

May 15 at the Capitol Park Hotel in Lansing.

All area residents are invited to attend the nominating convention.

The Ramada Inn is located on I-94 at Oakwood in Allen Park.

Ford seeks new term

The congressman representing Western Wayne County in the relatively near future is expected to announce that he will be seeking re-election.

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has notified supporters that he intends to seek re-election to his sixth consecutive term after taking his seat in 1965.

Ford sent campaign letters to regular supporters asking them to circulate petitions on his behalf.

Ford said that will he is notifying supporters of his intent to run, he will make a formal announcement within a few weeks.

No candidate to date has indicated he will oppose Ford in the congressional race.

The primary election for the campaign will be Aug. 3 this year with the general election scheduled for November 9.

Best bonnets

Romulus senior citizens turned out in the best duds for an Easter dinner, as the group marked the spring holiday with a festive gathering. A no Easter celebration would be complete without a parade of bon-nets, the top honor of which for the most beautiful hat going to Helen Marie Ford (left). Florence Hadyniak took second place for the prettiest bonnet.

Seniors lunch marks Easter

More than 120 Romulus senior citizens helped mark the Easter season at a recent holiday luncheon, held at the VFW Hall in that Western Wayne County community.

On hand for the holiday festivities were

Mayor and Mrs. James Stewart, Industrial Coordinator, Hyle Carmichael, Mayor Pro-tem and Mrs. Jerry Canejo, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Beverly McAnally, John Lewkowicz and Leonard Folmar, all guests of honor at the event. Also present for the luncheon was Leo Kolata of the Romulus branch of Manufacturer's Bank.

Senior club officials present at the meal were President Cesteke Fisher, Vice-President Herman McIntosh, Dues Treasurer Dorothy LaLonde, Miscellaneous Treasurer Leona Love, Melissa Belle and Cecilia Renke.

Music for the event was provided by club musicians Charlie Kitzmiller, Ernie Block and Melvin Johnson. A special solo performance also was performed by Branda Ruth Ann.

The Easter bonnets and ties, the fun part of the festivities, were judged by Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Conejo and Carmichael.

The men with the best Easter ties were Jim Wishart, Bob Churchill, Peter Pellerito and Vernon Foisy. The ladies with the best bonnets were Helen Ford, Eva Green, Adelia Wilson and Florence Hadyniak.

The raffle of two quilts also was included in the Easter program, with the winners as Frank Wisniewski and Carmichael.

Joan Haubrich, coordinator for the Romulus Recreation Department, Betty Lenossi and many of the senior citizens decorated the hall and cooked the meal for the luncheon.

Jury plan nets national claim

The innovative system of one day-one trial jury plan, launched in Wayne County Circuit Court in September 1975 has received national attention and resulted in informational requests from courts throughout the country, according to Presiding Judge James N. Canham of Wayne County Circuit Court.

Presently the jury program is under consideration for possible Exemplary Project status by the U.S. Department of Justice. This award is highly sought and bestows national recognition for outstanding achievement and contribution of grant projects under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, Judge Canham said.

The streamlined jury service was initiated by Canham on Sept. 22, 1975 and has been in operation in Wayne County Circuit, Common Pleas, Probate and Juvenile Courts.

The system, Judge Canham reported, has proven to be very popular with jurors. It eliminates the financial hardship and personal disruption which prevailed when citizens were summoned to serve for a 30-day term, he added.

"Other members of the court and attorneys also have reacted favorably to the change, which has led to reduction of requests for jury excusal," Judge Canham said. "This has resulted in maximum citizens participation and a guarantee that a more representative cross-section of the community actually serves."

Districts collect aid for special ed

Western Wayne County school districts under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County Intermediate School District received payments recently from the one mill tax levied county-wide for special education programs.

Included in the payment was $297,000 to the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, $735,000 to the Livonia School District and $46,000 to Cherry Hill schools.

In total, some $8.8 million in special education funds for 1975-76 went out to district in Wayne County. That amount included $2 million going to the Wayne County District itself, and $2.9 million to the Detroit public schools.

The funds were generated from the county-wide one mill tax approved by voter, in 1974 to be spent strictly on special education.

Other area district getting payment from the county include Garden City, $245,000; Inkster, $54,000; Romulus, $79,000;

Youth for Christ honored

Milliken sets special week

Youth for Christ, a non-denominational youth ministry, is marking its own special week in the state, following a decree by Gov. William G. Milliken setting aside April 24 through May 2 as Youth For Christ Week in Michigan.

The organization is aimed primarily at high school-aged youth, with the goal of helping young people find a "personal relationship with God through Jesus Christ."

Youth for Christ has units throughout the state, including the Huron Valley Youth for Christ located in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area. The local group sponsors rallies, held monthly except during the summer, featuring many "outstanding speakers and personalities."

The Huron Valley unit also works along with Campus Life clubs in the high schools, providing youth guidance through referrals from the school guidance counselors on problem teen-agers. The extensive counseling in the area has been handled by Duane Cuthbertson.

About 150 young people also meet each month for a program in Bible quizzing, in which they study and memorize large portions of the Scriptures and compete in local and national contests on a recall-speed basis.

The teens are from 14 different churches and plan to compete at the East Coast national competition and the world Bible Quiz this summer.

Other activities sponsored by the Huron Valley Youth for Christ are bi-monthly roller skating rallies. In May a skate-a-thon will be held, featuring six hours of roller skating, with prizes to be given out and a short musical concert by "New Jerusalem" to be provided.

The Huron Valley unit has a large associate staff, made up of college students and young adults, teachers and professional people who provided volunteer service for the Campus Life clubs and camp work, along with coordinating the monthly activities.

Activities in the future for the group includes a canoe trip down the AuSable River in June, and outreach trip to the Montreal Summer Olympics and a Campus Life Week in August.

The parent organization, Youth for Christ International, is coordinating efforts throughout the country for a relief work in Guatemala. Local residents, both adults and older teens, will be travelling to the Latin American country from June 11 through July 2 to aid in relief work there.

The governor's proclamation cites the Youth for Christ for undertaking the responsibility of working with the Juvenile Court and other agencies "in helping to redirect troubled young people to a new and better way of life through camping and year-round activities."

Armed with several moderately priced test instruments and tools — they will pay for themselves by the third tune-up, and also with the specifications listed in the service manual for your car, you can tune even the most intimidating of the larger engines. Why do it yourself? If you enjoy working with engines, you will get a certain amount of satisfaction out of putting your engine in that tip top condition that it should be. The largest part of any tune-up bill is the labor — and you will save yourself that money. But be sure you know what you are doing.

Do it yourself mechanics are invited to visit KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster, for all the parts you need to keep your car running efficiently! We have a full stock of parts and accessories for all domestic and foreign cars. Our expert staff offers fast, friendly counter service and will be happy to help you select those parts that are right for your particular car. (If you can't fix your car yourself, bring it to your local garage or service station mechanic for expert repairs.) KOSIN'S is open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M. and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. AUTO TIP:
Regardless of the car you are working on, always use replacement parts that meet the specifications of your service manual.

Holiday Inn gives bunnies to Elwell School students

Students in some Romulus elementary schools will have an opportunity to watch rabbits grow up thanks to the Romulus Holiday Inn.

The Metro Airport Holiday Inn has donated a batch of Easter Bunnies which visited the inn over the Easter Holiday to the Cory Elementary School, 35200 Smith Road, Romulus.

Innkeeper James Tague brought the animals to the motel for children who may be staying in the building over the Easter Holidays.

However, when the holidays were completed, the baby rabbits were not needed at the motel, so Tague donated them to the elementary school for the children's enrichment.

Children at the school will have a rabbit in each classroom and will be able to feed their charges while they chart the rabbits' growth.

Children's bunnies

Jason Tague holds one of the Easter bunnies donated to Romulus' Cory Elementary School by Jason's father, James, as part of a promotion by the Romulus Metropolitan Airport Holiday Inn. With Jason is Holiday Inn food and beverage director John Claravino. The rabbit was one of several donated to the elementary school so children in each classroom can chart the growth of their pet.

Brown bill could net funds for mass transit from lottery

Special state lottery games to generate funds for transportation programs in the Southeastern Michigan region is the aim of a House bill introduced by State Rep. Thomas H. Brown (D-Westland).

The proposed legislation would permit the Michigan State Lottery Bureau to conduct special lottery games in the seven-county region served by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA), with the proceeds going to the authority to be used for general transportation purposes and programs. The plan has met with opposition, however.

"This is an alternative method of raising much needed transportation funds for the region without creating new taxes, such as a proposed $10 license plate fee or by increasing existing taxes, such as the property transfer tax proposal," Brown stated.

Under his bill, special lottery tickets would be sold only by authorized agents in the seven county region, however anyone regardless of residence could purchase them.

Funds raised from the special lottery then would be returned through the State Highway Department to SEMTA for use in mass transit and general transportation programs.

Brown, a long-standing critic of the current tax proposals designed to fund SEMTA programs now being discussed in the senate, said: "I believe my method of generating funds through the lottery system is superior to the other proposals for several reasons including:

"One, the undependable nature of the property transfer tax scheme. Depending on the state of economy, that tax can tend to produce either very large or very small amounts of revenue. In contrast, Brown said, the lottery has a proven record as a predictable and steady source of income.

"Two, the government should be doing everything possible to encourage people and families to buy homes and property. This scheme of raising the transfer tax tenfold will have just the opposite effect.

"It will make it more difficult and more expensive to purchase a home by further adding to what many feel already are excessive closing costs and fees."

State Lottery Director Gus Harrison said the plan proposed by Rep. Brown could be a mistake.

CAP cadets take to 'air'

The cadets of the Wayne-Romulus Civil Air Patrol Squadron have taken to the air waves spending their Wednesday night meetings studying radio communications in an effort to earn their communication badges.

After completing their radio training, the group will concentrate on land training.

The cadets also took part in a recent "Come Fly with Me," held at Mettetal Airport in Canton Township. Five aircraft were involved in the aviation program.

A new program for the squadron is to have one field trip and one field exercise each month. In February, the group visited the Detroit Historical Museum, enjoying the special exhibits and taking an interest in the Old Streets of Detroit, a squadron spokesman said.

How do you help someone who is choking?

Seeing someone choking to death is not a pleasant sight and being unable to assist in such emergencies leaves an unforgettable mark on one's memory.

But there are many available training courses that can prepare an individual to give proper and helpful assistance in various emergency and rescue situations — such as those offered by the American Red Cross, medical societies and organizations and other health protection groups.

An "easy to master" method of aiding a person choking on food for example is the "Heimlich method" which was introduced to the medical profession and related organizations by Dr. Henry Heimlich of the Jewish Hospital located in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Heimlich method, according to health department reports, has been adopted as one of several emergency methods of assistance.

According to Heimlich, a person choking on food will die of strangulation in four minutes if help is not available.

Food-choking is caused by a piece of food lodging in the throat causing a blockage of the airway, making it impossible for the victim to breathe or speak.

Using the Heimlich method (see illustrations), the rescuer exerts pressure just below the rib cage and above the navel that forces the diaphragm upward, compresses the air in the lungs, and expels the object blocking the breathing passage.

The victim should see a physician immediately after the rescue. Such a maneuver could result in injury to the victim, however, the victim's only chance to survive is if his airway is quickly cleared.

A victim of food-choking cannot speak or breathe, Heimlich explained. He will turn blue and finally collapse. He suggested that the following steps be taken to effect a rescue:

When the victim is standing or sitting, you should stand behind the victim and wrap your arms around the victim's waist. Grasp your fist with your other hand and place the fist against the victim's abdomen, slightly above the navel and below the rib cage.

"Press your fist into the victim's abdomen with a quick upward thrust. Repeat this several times if necessary. When the victim is sitting, the rescuer stands behind the victim's chair and executes the maneuver as described above.

"In the event the victim is lying down face up, the rescuer should kneel astride the victim's hips. With one of your hands on top of the other, place the heel of your bottom hand on the abdomen slightly above the navel and below the rib cage and then press into the abdomen with a quick upward thrust."

If no help is at hand, a victim of food-choking should attempt to apply the Heimlich method on himself by pressing his own fist upward into the abdomen as described by Heimlich.

The Heimlich method has been described in several national publications, including the American Medical Association Journal, it was reported.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

The victim of food-choking:

1. Can Not Speak or Breathe.

2. Turns Blue.

3. Collapses.

Romulus Lions set for annual drive

Romulus' newest service club will undertake its first effort in the community.

The 50-member Romulus Lions Club is hoping its April 30-May 2 "White Cane Week" project in behalf of the sight handicapped in the Romulus area, is a success after being chartered just one month before the state Lions Club's largest fundraising effort.

According to Jerry Minder, White Cane Week chairman, the 50 Lions will be out on the street corners and at major commercial outlets in Romulus soliciting donations in exchange for a handsome "White Cane" pin which shows the donor supports research into combatting blindness and sight problems.

According to Minder, the club, whose president is John Brimble, has had but one meeting prior to undertaking the White Cane assignment.

"Despite our relative youth, we're hoping that the Romulus club has a good showing in the fundraising effort to prove to the state organization we're worthy of being Lions and that we'll be a real asset in the state organization," Minder said. "With the type of people we have in Romulus, I believe we'll receive the support we need."

Chartered last month after being sponsored by the Belleville Lions Club, the Romulus Lions meet on the first and third Wednesday of each month at the Romulus Recreation Center on Huron River Drive.

Meetings run from 7-8:30 p.m. and feature a dinner and business discussion.

"We're always looking for good strong members who are interested in working to benefit the community," Minder said.

Persons interested in joining the Lions must be sponsored by a present member of the club, however, interested residents are welcome to attend one of the bi-monthly meetings.

WRHS class meets

The Willow Run High School Class of 1966 is seeking former classmates to discuss a possible class reunion. Persons who either graduated from the school in 1966 or know the whereabouts of some who graduated that year, are being asked to call 485-0956, or 699-2044, with the information.

Parcels 'hours' fixed

Persons who cannot make arrangements to pick up packages during the normal 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekday hours at the Belleville Post Office have a "bonus."

The Post Office will be open for six hours on Saturdays for non-cash transactions, particularly for delivery of packages and letters which must be given to recipients in person.

The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. set-up on Saturdays is available to all residents who are not able to make connections with their normal postal carriers and aren't able to meet the regular weekday hours for package pickup.

Belleville senior citizens host spring tea

Non-regulars honored by fellow members

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club recently held a Spring Tea to honor those members of the senior citizens' organization who haven't been able to attend regular meetings.

Held April 21 at the Edgemont Elementary School, the tea featured the entertainment on a Bicentennial theme of Myrtle Wells' "Kitchen Belles Band."

Juanita Akers, with the assistance of Elda Bohl, co-chaired the gathering, which featured a humorous fashion show, narrated by Mrs. Bohl.

The band's entertainment consisted of a "Name that Song" contest with Harold Cullin and Hazel Schaeel Greashaber participating for prizes.

Jim Cheyne served as master of ceremonies.

The band played tunes from the early days of American history in keeping with the Bicentennial theme. In addition, Myrtle Gobel, Margaret Saunders, Alice Hightower and Betty Hunter participated in a quartet presentation of "Whispering Hope."

Another performance featured a skit to the tune "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

Playing their kitchen-style kazoo as part of the entertainment were Minnie Schultz, Aldine Potter, Helen Essex, Audrey McKee, Alice Evans, Margaret Cheyne and Nellie Van Wormer. Velma Kulzer narrated the performances.

Twelve members participated in the "Fashion Show" centered around their own "far-out" clothing creations.

Among the standouts were Helen Essex as the "Belle of the Ball", featuring a dancing gown with dangling bells and a headpiece with winking lights; Lillian Meade, with an outlandish hat, and Annie Hoag was a "box coat" which did not allow her to sit down when modeling the creation.

Other models in the "show" were Sophie Collins, Mrs. Kulzer, Marie O'Cholik, Margery Lingfelder, Martha Cebolski, Eva Luper Mrs.

Scultz, Mrs. Goble and Jean Randall.

Served as part of the tea were ice cream and homemade cookies.

According to Betty Hunter, publicist for the event, the afternoon allowed long-time senior citizen club members to renew old friendships and to make new acquaintances among the newcomers.

Romulus shows building 'upsurge'

Romulus building officials report a sudden upsurge in construction, bolstered by a better than $1 million industrial building soon to be started.

Building Department Director Edward D. Fall reports that the estimated cost of construction in the community during March topped $1.3 million with two buildings making up better than 80 percent of that total.

Major constructions include an office, dock and garage on Harrison between Hildebrandt and Wick roads for Express Freight Lines with an estimated cost of $1,030,000 and the renovation of the restaurant at Host International in Metropolitan Airport at a cost of $100,000.

Another industrial building, a foundation for a warehouse at Highland Industrial also on Harrison between Hildebrandt and Wick roads has a better than $13,000 estimated value, while a Dairy Dome outlet, scheduled for construction, is estimated to cost $20,000.

Other constructions include two new residential homes with a total new estimated value of $60,100 and 15 garages and carports with a total estimated value of $38,500.

In addition, 145 specialty permits, for such jobs as heating, plumbing and electricity, brought in a total of $2,424 in fees.

Building officials attribute the sudden increase in construction to the ending of the winter and predict improved trends during the rest of the summer.

Vic Tanny's: 'Work out to feel better'

New Birmingham spa to be best in Midwest

Truck Drivers. Bank Presidents. Secretaries. Real Estate salesmen. Housewives. Assembly line workers. Models. Cops. Lawyers. Reporters. You name it and chances are 99 to 1 you can find just about any trade, business or profession among the thousands trekking weekly to the country's health clubs.

"People used to work out to look better," says Mike Lucci, former Detroit Lion linebacker and now vice-president and national director of physical fitness for Vic Tanny International.

"Now they work out to feel better."

Lucci should know. Since he joined Vic Tanny in 1971 he has presided over a 50 percent increase in the number of clubs the firm operates and more are on the way.

Newest in the 30-club chain is the $1.5 million club under construction at Telegraph and 15 Mile roads in Birmingham. It will be, says Lucci, the most advanced facility of its kind in the Midwest.

"It is designed for the entire family," he said. "Its 30,000 square feet will have, among other things, an olympic swimming pool, a small restaurant, an indoor jogging track and the most sophisticated exercise equipment we can find."

The new project is a far cry from the gyms of yore. Then a workout floor, a steam room and sauna and a locker room comprised the whole layout. Customers mostly were sweating men. Total investment was about $10,000.

Today, in addition to the swimming pools, jogging tracks and modern exercise equipment there are raquetball courts, whirlpool baths and myriad other facilities. And the clientele has changed.

In earlier years of today's health clubs the customers mostly were women. "Until 1973 it was about 70 percent," Lucci said.

Today it is about 50 percent women, 50 percent men. Most are between 18 and 40 but Lucci says there are an increasing number of older people joining the movement.

"One woman member at the Dearborn Club recently learned to swim at the age of 72," he said.

"People use health clubs because they want to look better and live longer," Lucci explained. "But both men and women also use them as a release for pentup tensions. Many go just for the fellowship of the workout room and the steam room."

Vic Tanny clubs—a division of Health and Tennis Corp. of America based in Chicago—are in Michigan, Windsor, Missouri, Tennessee and Ohio. They are affiliated with more than 800 clubs throughout the country.

Their new complex in Knoxville is Lucci's pride and joy. It has seven indoor tennis courts, 10 outdoor courts, five raquetball courts and an olympic pool on its 60,000 square feet.

"It probably is the largest sports health club complex under one roof in the world," Lucci reports.

In addition to the Birmingham and Knoxville clubs Vic Tanny recently bought and remodeled a club in Troy and is busy overseeing construction of a new facility in Windsor.

"And we're still looking," Lucci says. They plan on new facilities, new locations for some present clubs and remodeling of other present installations.

The recession didn't faze Lucci or Roy Zurkowski, chief executive officer of Vic Tanny who brought Lucci into the company.

"While a lot of people elected to sit back and moan over the recession," Lucci said, "we have been going forward. When someone speaks of working out we want them to think of Vic Tanny."

Apparently, Lucci's theory is working.

He estimates there are 55,000 workouts a week in the clubs he supervises. Some, of course, are repeaters. But even so that's a lot of grunts and groans.

The number of workouts, Lucci says, are up 50 percent in five years. Michigan clubs clock 25,000 workouts a week now, Ohio clubs take care of another 10,000, seven St. Louis clubs cater to 10,000 a week and there are at least 1,500 a week working out in Knoxville.

Sometimes, Lucci says, Vic Tanny is hard put to keep up with the demand. For instance, the Dearborn club, originally built in 1963, has been remodeled three times in the succeeding 13 years—the latest in 1973 when it was doubled in size. In 1971 there were 1,400 workouts a week at Dearborn, today there are 7,000.

Vic Tanny bases a large part of its appeal on the individually tailored exercise programs it works out for its members.

"They can get their own specific program as to the extent of, amount of and types of exercise according to the individual's desire and capability," Lucci explained.

These programs are developed by Tanny's own medical staff and are approved by an advisory board of seven medical and health specialists including Capt. James Lovell Jr., a former astronaut who made four trips into space and was the first man to go to the moon twice.

"A workout is fun, not a chore," he proclaims. And more and more truck drivers and bank presidents and housewives and etc. seem to agree with him.

Things have changed

Until a few years ago the typical workout gym consisted of a workout floor and a steam room, inhabited mostly by sweaty men. Today's health clubs are popular with both women and men and offer whirlpool baths, swimming pools, raquetball courts and a host of other sophisticated exercise equipment.

Handicapped veterans have a nearby place where they can study specialized driving skills.

The Allen Park Veterans Administration Hospital has been designated to provide driver training for severely disabled veterans and military personnel.

Eligible for this special training are veterans and military personnel with service-connected disabilities.

Veterans eligible for the instruction can apply either at the hospital, located near Southfield Road and Outer Drive, or at the VA regional office in Detroit.

Glenn loses Elks' Relays title to Dearborn

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

For the want of one point, Westland John Glenn handed over the 11th Annual Elks Relays Track & Field title to state powerhouse Dearborn.

Glenn, the defending champ and host for Saturday's competition, amassed 49 points, one shy of Dearborn's winning total of 50. West Bloomfield placed third in a field of 12 teams.

Barry Basel, head track coach at John Glenn, noted several events where, "we could have turned the tide if we had just a little more effort."

DAVE GAGNON

Sports

"In fact, if our team had leaped three-quarters of an inch more in the long jump and placed fourth instead of fifth, we could have won the title," Basel added.

Glenn did capture the 4-mile relay event thanks to Jim Barber, Carl Cretal, Bill Robinson and Ted Unold who combined for an 18:44.2 performance.

Glenn's mile relay team of Cliff Williamson, Dave Johnson, Kelly Frost and Jeff Couturier had only a mere one-tenth of a cushion to spare over Dearborn. The Westlanders' winning time was 3:26.6.

Cherry Hill, which finished fifth teamwise, also picked up two firsts, claiming the long jump and the high jump relays.

In the long jump, Coach Joe Grasley's trio of Dave Bisesi, Paul Centkowski and Bill Coughenour had a combined total of 59 feet, edging second place Dearborn. The Spartans' high jumpers teamed up for a total of 17 feet, 9 3/4 inches.

Bob Bridges, in his 19th season as Dearborn High's head track coach, was pleased with the victory.

"This is a tough meet," Bridges said. "Most of the teams that participate usually wind up as their respective league champ."

"The only thing that marred this year's competition, I felt, was the inclement weather. The wind

Ex-St. Mary's grid great, Gagnon signs pro contract

Dave Gagnon, who broke all kinds of scoring records as a member of Wayne St. Mary's and Ferris State College's football teams, has signed a professional contract with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League.

Gagnon, who played briefly with the Chicago Bears, is a runningback.

At Ferris, Gagnon set career records for scoring (162) and total offense yardage (2,379). Dave, who owns 10 Bulldog marks in all, was on the Chicago Bears' specialty teams in 1974.

He was cut by the Bears last season and played briefly for the Chicago Wind of the World Football League before the loop folded.

During his Ferris grid career, Gagnon once was named NAIA "National Back of the Week" after scoring five touchdowns against the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle.

How sweet it is Stepping over the plate is Wayne Memorial's John Vincil as he scores one of the runs that helped Coach Jim Chronowski's Zebras turn back top-ranked Plymouth Salem 9-1 in the nightcap of a nonleague twinbill. However, Salem rocked Wayne 16-5 in their opener.

Cherry Hill track streak in jeopardy

Despite what Coach Joe Grasley termed as a "flat performance," Cherry Hill had enough to rattle Taylor Kennedy 94-37 in a Tri-River Conference track and field meet.

Cherry Hill, the defending Tri-River Champ, has now strung together 10 consecutive victories and has won 17 in a row in the conference.

"We have some of our people out because of injuries and illness, others are on vacation, so we had to resort to our younger kids. They came through for us."

Johnson tries hand on defense

Former Westland John Glenn All-Area quarterback Terry Johnson will try on a new defensive suit when the Wayne State University gridders launch the 1976 campaign.

Third-year head WSU coach Dick Lowry announced this week that sophomore-to-be Johnson had been switched from quarterback to the defensive secondary.

The Tartars are in their third week of a four-week series of spring drills, leading up to the May 1 Green-Gold Game scheduled for 2 p.m. in WSU Stadium.

Novick wins state AAU wrestling title

Wrestling has its share of surprises as the nine wrestlers who represented the Wayne-Westland Wolverine Club at the AAU Junior Olympic State Championships have learned.

Of the nine area grapplers, three captured medals, one a gold.

Mike Novick was the gold medalist in the 11-12 year old 126-pound class. Teammate Keith Zimmerman placed second in the same age group at 133-pounds while Mike's brother, John, earned a third place at 85-pounds for 9-10 year old grapplers.

The state championships were held at Anchor Bay High School in New Baltimore. Considered the toughest competition in AAU age group wrestling, area wrestlers clashed with their counterparts from throughout the state.

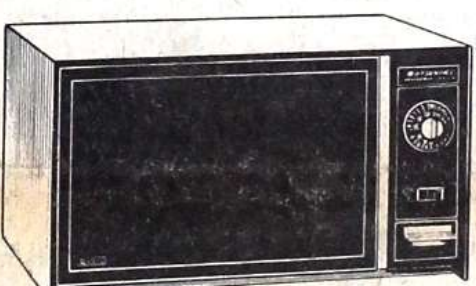

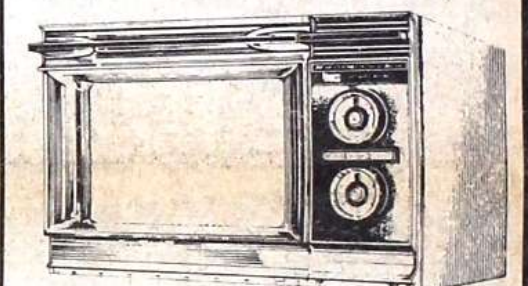

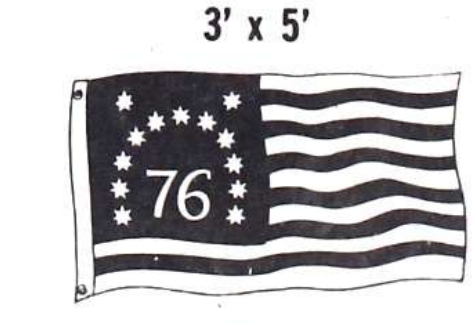

Zimmerman sustained his first setback of the season when he settled for a runners-up berth. Robb Paciocco, at 80-pounds, was zeroing in on a medal for the 11-12 year-olds when he suffered a shoulder separation and was sidelined from the tournament.

The Wolverines are coached by Sam Adams.

Belleville sophomore clears 6 feet-6 inches in high jump

Chris Koger is only a sophomore, but he already has carved for himself a niche as one of Belleville High's finest high jumpers.

And that's saying a lot since the school has produced Garrade Pethus, who recently cleared 7-feet in NCAA competition.

Koger leaped 6 feet, 6 inches but had to settle for third place in a meet against Ypsilanti. Ypsi's Dennis Lewis made 6 feet, 8 inches to win the event and stake his team to a 90½ to 64½ victory over Belleville in a triangular meet.

Willow Run finished third with 12 points.

"Last year Chris' best leap in junior high was 5 feet, 7 inches," said Belleville Coach Dave Medley. "In a short span of one year he has already improved his leap by nearly one foot."

Medley felt that his team produced "some very good times against a real good Ypsilanti team."

Belleville's 440-yard relay team of Don Lewis, Art Henderson, Rodney Patterson and Bill Abraham placed second in a record-setting time of 44.6 seconds.

Belleville garnered three first places, taking the long jump with Patterson's 20 feet, 5½ inch leap; the pole vault thanks to Al Russell's 11 feet performance and the 2-mile run when Don Buhro covered the distance in 10:32.8.

Meet results: Ypsilanti 90½, Belleville 64½, Willow Run 12.

Riverside netmen nip Spartans, 4-3

Riverside tossed a wrench into Cherry Hill's title-grinding tennis machine last week as the Dearborn Heights netmen edged Coach Mike Hairabedian's Spartans 4-3.

The Spartans swept all but No. 4 singles, but crumbled in the doubles as Riverside earned all three points.

"We're trying to iron out some of our problems in doubles' competition," said Hairabedian, the dean of area tennis coaches. "I feel we will be ready for a serious run on the title after we get a couple of more meets under our belts."

Cherry Hill evens up baseball record

Like the weather, Cherry Hill's baseball team is unpredictable.

The Spartans dropped their first three nonleague games of the season, then Coach Ken Mientkiewicz' ball club did an about face and strung together three wins, including a rain-shortened 1-0 victory over Westland John Glenn.

Cherry Hill rallied for single runs in the bottom of the seventh and eighth to join Romulus 6-5 in an extra inning affair.

"We're improving in almost every department," said Mientkiewicz who is in his first season as Cherry Hill's head coach. "Our fielding is better, the hitting is good and our pitching has come around thanks to Lipinski (Mark) and Harrison (Jim)."

YWCA programs: Fit into all interests

The YWCA of Western Wayne County has come up with a 6-week program, guaranteed to fit into the interests of every member of the family.

"Ladies Day Out," began Tuesday and will be held Thursday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. includes such diverse offerings as quilting, ceramics, sculpture, advanced bridge, tailoring, needlecraft, rug hooking, painting, exercise, "How To Prevent Rape," U.S. regional cooking and two special features called "Yours Truly" and "Back To Nature." The Tuesday feature, called "Yours Truly" is something personal for the woman, with each week highlighting an area of interest with skilled guests instructors. All six mornings are offered for $6 total.

The Thursday morning special series, "Back to Nature," begins April 29. The first morning covers House Plants, the number 1 decorating items of the 70s followed by outdoor gardening, which will demonstrate how to successfully create a garden on a suburban landscape. Pat Holden of Detroit Edison will lay to rest fears with facts on canning and freezing. Members of the Northville AAUW will describe how they formed a successful Food Coop. The next morning features a shopping and tasting trip to Eastern Market, and the final session features herbs — how to raise your own and uses for that gourmet touch. Nursery service and special Lunch 'N' Listen programs have been planned as treats to round out the Ladies Day Out programs. For men, women and teens who prefer evening schedules, the agenda includes 6-week classes in karate, astrology, indoor-outdoor gardening, slim trim exercise, "How to Prevent Rape," ballroom-disco dance, cultural crafts, ballet exercise and ceramics. Outdoor golf and tennis registrations are being taken for daytime and evening classes of limited size.

On May 1st, the "Kids Korner" begins featuring afternoon activity from 10 to 12. Tumbling, outdoor games, basic art and ceramics and sculpture are included. All fees are nominal.

YWCA membership for one year is $6. for adults, $3. for teens and children. To register, visit the YWCA at 26279 Michigan Avenue, between Beech Daly and John Daly Roads, or call 561-4110 for more details. The YWCA of Western Wayne County is a United Community Service - United Foundation Agency, serving the communities of Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Inkster, Romulus, Taylor, Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton and Van Buren townships.

Bicentennial theme wil prevade for annual 'Evenings at Fair Lane'

The Dearborn Community Arts Council will present the 8th annual "Evenings at Fair Lane," a showcase of the arts, May 21-22 from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

A special Bicentennial presentation will feature the "64th Regiment of Foot," with the "First Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corps" and an encampment from 1 to 4 p.m. May 22. The afternoon program will include a variety show with guided tours of the home, grounds and nature trails.

Fair Lane, the home of the late Henry and Clara Bryant Ford, now serving as the Fair Lane Conference Center, is located on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. It can be reached from Evergreen Road a quarter mile south of Ford Road and west of the Southfield Expressway.

"Evenings" has become the area's largest spring exhibition for performing artists. A special emphasis in this year's presentation are the artists themselves in a salute to the nation's 200th Birthday. The program, in a variety of art forms, includes music, dance, drama, arts and crafts, film-making and creative writing, will link the past to the present showing the "Spirit of America - Through the Arts."

Gretchen Ackermann, general chairman, assisted by Bud Davis and Irja Connolly, are planning a continuous program of ongoing performances, exhibitions and creative activities throughout the historic mansion and grounds.

The Dearborn Community Arts Council is a non-profit organization and a member of the Michigan Council for the Arts. It is represented by seven trustees and 26 member organizations whose delegates form the council's board.

Tickets for either evening program are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens. The tickets entitle the holders to the Saturday afternoon program as well. Tickets for the Saturday afternoon program only are $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens. They are available at all Dearborn Bank & Trust branches, Sally's-Westborn, Little Professor Book Store, Fisher's Gift Shop, Henry Ford Centennial Library, or at the door.

Hours, activities extended

Spring arrives at village, museum

Spring is here and to welcome it Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum have extended their hours, activities and visitor services.

Through June 11, Village hours will be 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends and holidays with the last ticket sold one hour before closing. Hours in the Museum are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends and holidays.

The winter schedule of guided tours has ended allowing visitors to once again stroll the village streets at their own pace. Guides or craftsmen are stationed in 34 village buildings daily to interpret exhibits and answer questions. Twenty-two other buildings are available to walk through or look in, many with interpretive tape recordings.

Craftsmen are at work throughout the village demonstrating the timeless skills of their forebears. The tinsmith, potter, pewterer, blacksmith, baker, glass blower, silversmith and spinner are busy seven days a week. A leather worker and broom maker work five days a week. Rug hooking and tintype photography also are demonstrated. The Greenfield Village Railroad has begun its daily operation, taking visitors on a 2-mile trip around the Village perimeter. Carriage tours are offered daily, and Model T, surrey, haywagon, merry-go-round and pony wagon rides operate on weekends only. The Suwanee Riverboat will begin weekend operation on May 13.

Spring fever also has captured the Henry Ford Museum where the story of America's development in the mechanical and decorative arts is being told in a 14-acre setting.

Along the Street of Early American Shops, the candlemaker, broom maker, tinsmith and pewterer are at work.

Visitors also can witness the most extensive exhibition ever staged by the Henry Ford Museum, "The Struggle and the Glory." This Bicentennial exhibition tells the story of our country from 1755 to 1789 by employing original manuscripts, period furniture, films, slides, maps and other related 3-dimensional objects.

Begins drive for referendum vote

MUCC supports non-returnable bottle ban

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), the state's largest conservation organization, has started a drive to place the question of banning throw-away containers on the ballot in the November general election. The printing of petitions, calling for a referendum on placing a deposit on soft drink and beer containers in an effort to curb litter and conserve energy, is underway. The proposal also would ban "pull tabs" on cans. "We intend to collect 300,000 signatures by June 1," said Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director. "We're counting on our 100,000 members to provide the foundation for the petition drive, but if it is to succeed we'll need the help from citizens throughout Michigan, including many who are not members of the MUCC." Washington said anyone interested in becoming involved in the "bottle bill crusade," may obtain petitions by writing MUCC, Box 2235, Lansing, Mich. 48911, or by calling (517) 371-1041. The bottle bill, sponsored by State Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl (D-East Lansing), was referred to the House Appropriation Committee last Nov. 12 and has rested there ever since. Legislation to ban non-returnable bottles and cans was first introduced in Michigan nearly 10 years ago. "We would prefer to have this question acted upon by the Legislature, but since that body has chosen to ignore the issue, we have no alternative but to seek a popular vote on Rep. Jondahl's bill," Washington said. Washington cited results of a statewide poll conducted last year by a private opinion research firm that showed an overwhelming majority of Michigan citizens favor banning the sale of "non-returnables." According to the poll, 73.3 percent of those questioned said they favored a state law banning the sale of these containers. Only 19.9 percent expressed opposition, and 6.8 percent had no opinion.

County's GOP committee appeals ruling on vacancies

The Wayne County Republican Committee has filed appeals to both the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court seeking to reverse a Wayne County Circuit Court decision that held in favor of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners appointments to fill unexpired terms. The county's GOP committee initiated a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court to force elections to fill three vacancies on the Board of Commissioners which, according to the committee, had been filled by appointment illegally. Circuit Court Judge Victor J. Baum on March 19 ruled that the pertinent Michigan statute gives the county commissioners the option of filling vacancies by appointment or by special election. The two appeals on Judge Baum's ruling were filed simultaneously on April 12 because of the time factor for calling a special election. The appeal contends that the law requires a special election to any vacancy which occurs more than 180 days before the end of the term. Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, in an advisory opinion, has found the election provision mandatory. There are 25 Democrats and two Republicans on the Board of Commissioners. The three appointees were John J. Krone of District 17 in northwest Detroit; Thomas Presnell of Westland, District 20; and John Trellay of Trenton, District 25. Ernest C. Fackler, chairman of the Wayne County Republican Committee, said the three are holding office illegally and that any action the Board of Commissioners has taken while they were present and voting may not be valid. Fackler added: "Allowing the Board of Commissioners to fill every vacancy, which occurs through resignation, death, or other reasons, would develop a self-perpetuating board. "The best interests of the citizens of Wayne County would not be served by such a system. Even now, one-third of the commissioners currently serving, first served by appointment." Fackler hopes that the issue can be resolved favorably by the Michigan Supreme Court in time for a special election. "The 300,000 voters in Wayne County will retain the right to elect candidates to unexpired terms on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, if the appeals filed with the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court are successful," Fackler added.

Scout fair captures the 'Spirit of '76'

What would it have been like to be a Girl Scout in 1776? Ann Arbor Girl Scouts are inviting the 690 Girl Scout troops of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council to find out at the Heritage Fair to be held May 1 from 10 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Farm Council Grounds at 5095 Saline Road. Scouts and their families can attend a colonial school room complete with horn books and spelling bees, participate in colonial games such as sack and potato races, and do colonial crafts such as candlemaking, weaving and making dried apple and corn husk dolls. They can also take lessons in colonial dances. The Girl Scouts will view special exhibits such as frontier medicine, frontier foods, colonial groceries and colonial dolls. A Paul Revere play will be presented, and winners of a doll contest, an essay contest and a poetry contest held among area Girl Scouts since the first of the year will be announced during these ceremonies. A special show at 3:30 p.m. will feature songs by a chorus of 200 Brownies, colonial dances by older Girl Scouts and a performance by the Girl Scout Band formed especially for this occasion. Over 400 Girl Scouts will present the various activities of the fair, which has received official designation as an Ann Arbor Bicentennial Event by the Ann Arbor Bicentennial Commission. The fair is being sponsored by the Ann Arbor Area Association of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, an organization composed of the 400 adults of Ann Arbor and Whitmore Lake involved in girl scouting.

Mixed doubles' champs

Carol Post, 600 Club annual tournament winner who scored a 587 actual and 665 handicap and Mary Willis, who emerged as the Sixth Annual Pioneer Club Tournament titlist. Mrs. Willis posted a 691 with handicap.

Rocket bats come alive; sweep 2 from Romulus

Westland John Glenn fattened its baseball record at the expense of Romulus as Coach Norm Hoenes' Rockets swept a doubleheader from the Eagles 2-0 and 21-2.

Craig Duncan, a junior righthander, twirled a one-hitter in the 2-0 shutout, striking out 10 and walking two. His bid for a no-hitter was ruined by Michael Morrison who singled to right field in the fifth inning.

Glenn got on the scoreboard in the third inning when Craig Walker singled, moved up on a fielder's choice and scored when Mike Dednarski doubled.

In the fifth the Westlanders scored an insurance run when Walker sliced a single, scoring Eric Borsvold who was safe on an error and had moved to second when Kevin Sanders sacrificed.

Walker collected two of the seven Glenn hits, both singles, while Dednarski singled and doubled. Larry Schroeder also belted a pair of singles for the winners.

Wayne Hodgkins received the support of 19 hits in chalking up the nightcap. He fanned four and walked one, allowing two hits. Kelly was charged with the loss.

The Glenn hurler helped his cause along with a couple of hits. Mates Borsvold, Todd Deluca, Dan Diadiun, John Stafford, Mark Sedarik each checked in with two hits while Walker and Doug Martin finished the day splitting six safeties between them.

Glenn looked impressive against a strong Livonia Stevenson contingent as Terry Butler won a pitcher's duel from Brent Erickson 1-0.

The Westlanders scored the winning run in the eighth inning on a suicide squeeze play which brought Borsvold home from third.

Borsvold latched on to one of Erickson's fast balls for a double with one-way. Then, Kevin Sanders walked and Larry Schroeder was safe on an error, leading the bases.

Diadiun then put down his bunt which scored the winning run.

Butler went the distance, striking out three and walking five. Erickson, charged with the loss, gave up five hits, notched 11 strikeouts and walked three.

Glenn carried a 4-6 won-lost record into this week's action. The Rockets' nonleague game with Inkster scheduled for Monday was cancelled because of the unseasonal cold weather. They'll take on North Farmington on Wednesday and will meet Franklin on Friday.

"We're making the runs now," said Hoenes who received some good news earlier in the week. "Our pitching and defense have been good."

That good news came in the form of outfielder Mike Bednarski who is returning to the Rocket lineup after a brief illness. Bednarski should give the Westlanders needed power at the plate.

Athletic injuries discussed

Wayne State University Head Athletic Trainer Robert C. (Doc) White (Dearborn), will speak on "The Prevention and Care of Athletic Injuries" May 8 at the Great Lakes Regional Meeting of the Presidents Council of Physical Fitness in Sports at Schoolcraft Community College.

White is one of several speakers lined up for the May 7-8 Conference.

In his 25th year at WSU, White is National Director for the Great Lakes District to the National Athletic Trainers Association and a co-chairman for the 1977 NATA Convention at the Hyatt Regency.

Wayne, champs split

Brian Gillies has a tough act to follow. And he knows it.

Gillies replaced Wayne Sparkman as head coach of Plymouth Salem's baseball team and with the inheritance comes the task of trying to successfully defend the Class A state and Suburban 8 Conference titles.

"I knew we would be a bit shy on our pitching," Gillies said. "However, we're an excellent hitting team and it's panned out pretty much the way we thought it would."

Salem's team batting average is a hefty .322 and that's one of the reasons why the Rocks are ranked the No. 1 team in the state. The second reason is Brian Wolcott's pitching arm.

Wolcott has won all three conference outings and is undefeated in his four starts this season.

The Rocks launched the defense of their league title with a 6-0 shutout over Belleville. They trimmed Redford Union 3-1 and came back with a 9-3 victory over Trenton. Salem was due to meet Edsel Ford on Tuesday - weather permitting. They'll travel to Dearborn on Friday.

Gillies feels that Livonia Bentley is the team to watch in the league. The Bulldogs could ruin the Rocks' plans for a repeat title performance.

"Bentley has a fine ball club this season," Gillies noted, "and we have to be wary of them. They have much of the talent back of a year ago."

Meanwhile, Salem buried Wayne Memorial 16-5 in the first game of a doubleheader on Saturday as Wolcott scattered three hits in his four innings on the mound. He gave way to reliever Dave Nidsgorski who finished up.

Wayne started Jim Canfield who lasted three innings against the state champs.

Wolcott helped his own cause with three hits in four trips to the plate, including two runs batted in, while teammate Charlie Johnson belted three doubles which scored five runs. Howard Inch accounted for a double and single and two RBI's and Mitch Symonds had four for five and two RBI's.

Wayne's Pat Sheridan hammered two hits in four appearances at the plate.

In the nightcap, Pat Bledsoe silenced Salem 9-1 as he tossed a six-hitter, struck out two in five innings of work. Mike Primeau took the loss. He was removed in the first inning for reliever Tom Shialatas who finished up.

Sheridan and Mito Idunate led Wayne's attack with two hits apiece.

The Zebras scored three times in the first and sixth innings, added two in the sixth and one in the third innings.

Students net scholarship

Two John Glenn High School seniors recently were named recipients of scholarships to attend Adrian College.

The scholarship went to Thomas Carpenter and Mary Doherty in recognition of their academic excellence. The scholarships are for one year and renewable, if academic performance is maintained.

Carpenter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carpenter of 36856 Thinbark, Wayne. He is a member of the Kirk of Our Savior of Westland and plans to major in biology at Adrian.

Miss Doherty is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Doherty and her guardian is Charles Doherty of Westland. She attends St. Mary's Church of Wayne and at John Glenn, she is active in the French, Spanish and co-op clubs.

Adrian is a 4-year liberal arts school related to the United Methodist Church. The college has an enrollment of about 1,000 and offers graduate and undergraduate programs.

Glenn trackmen remain undefeated

Sweeping 12 of 16 events, Westland John Glenn buried Robichaud and Willow Run in a triangular track meet to remain undefeated on the season.

The Westlanders garnered 108 points as compared to Robichaud's 45. Willow Run had 14.

The victory was Coach Barry Basel and the Rockets' seventh in a row. They'll resume their bid for a second straight Northwest Suburban title on Thursday when they travel to Redford Township Thurston.

Robichaud's "Mr. Everything," Everett Charleston was the meet's lone double winner as he jumped 19 feet, 11 1/2 inches in the long jump and cleared 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump for his two wins.

Meet results: Westland John Glenn 108.

Romulus getting bad hops

Good luck definitely isn't siding with Romulus Coach Dennis Stoh this season.

Stoh has three veterans returning off of last year's squad that posted a 12-8 record. But, one of those players, Mickey Russell, is already sidelined. He sustained a cut that required 11 stitches to close.

The incident occurred in Romulus' opener at Garden City East. East shut out its rivals 11-0.

"A bad hop hit Russell's glasses and he suffered a cut under his eye," said Stoh. "It was a tough way to start a season."

The Eagles came back to edge Ann Arbor Pioneer 8-7 thanks to a last inning, three-run rally. However, they dropped a 6-2 decision to Ann Arbor Huron and were beaten 7-4 by Garden City West.

Sophomore Mike Marsiglia pitched 8 and one-third innings to lift the Eagles to an impressive 2-1 victory over Ypsilanti. Romulus scored what proved to be the winning run on a suicide squeeze which scored Chuck McBride from third. Marsiglia whiffed two and walked two, giving up the lone run in the sixth inning.

Romulus tied it up in the seventh when Bill McBride singled, moved to third on John Meyer's base hit and scored on a fielder's choice.

Morrison, a recent choice for the All-Area cage team, is leading the Eagles' battery. He's swatting the ball around at an enviable .500 clip, collecting nine hits in 18 appearances at the plate.

Franklin stuns state champs

Patriots hand Salem 1st setback, 6-2

Livonia Franklin and Coach Ron Hellier will resume their bid for the Northwest Suburban Conference baseball crown on Friday with a secure feeling that they were the first to hand Plymouth Salem, the No. 1 ranked team and defending Class A state champ, its first loss of the campaign.

The Livonians jolted Salem 6-2 in the first game of a twinbill, then bowed to the state champs 8-6 in the nightcap.

The loss was also Brian Gillies' first as Salem's head coach. He replaced Wayne Sparkman this year as the Rocks' top diamond strategist.

Franklin got all of the runs it needed in the third inning when it scored three times off of losing pitcher Tom Shitalas. The Livonians struck for an insurance run in the third inning and added two more in the sixth.

Salem had a 1-0 first inning lead and tallied its final run in the bottom of the seventh.

Larry Urban's two-run homer with Steve Tresik aboard highlighted Franklin's assault. Tresik had led off in the sixth with a single off of reliever Mike Primeau.

Brian Wolcott scattered seven Franklin hits, one a three-run homer by Urban, to edge the Patriots 8-6. The Salem hurler struck out seven and walked one.

Franklin's Calvin Beer started and pitched 4 and one-third innings before yielding to Al Casterdale who finished up. Beer was tagged for six runs and eight hits.

Pollard tripled and Tresik walked to set up Urban's homer. It was Urban's third circuit clout in three games.

Tim Hollandsworth, batting an enviable .600 on the season, (12 of 16) counted three Franklin hits and a run batted in; Tresik also had a perfect day (3 for 3).

Franklin also split a doubleheader with arch-rival, Bentley. The Patriots dropped the opener 9-4 while winning the second game 7-3.

Six errors led to Franklin's downfall in the first game as Bentley routed losing pitcher Mark Wilkins after 3 and one-third innings. Casterdale finished up.

Hollandsworth drilled two of Franklin's eight hits.

Behind Flood's 8-hitter, Franklin won the nightcap 7-3. Beer started the game and worked the first two innings before Flood took over.

Franklin came from behind in both games to sweep a doubleheader from Northville on Friday. The Patriots won the opener 6-3 and took the second game 7-6.

A three-run rally in the top of the sixth broke a Franklin scoring drought in the first game. Pollard got aboard on an error, then Hollandsworth belted his first home run of the season to give the Patriots a 2-1 edge. Tresik followed with a double and Dan Pederson singled him home.

In the seventh, after Northville tied the score at 3-all, Franklin went ahead for good on a single by Darrel Gunter, a RBI double by Pollard and Hollandsworth's second HR of the game.

Hollandsworth wound up with three hits, in four trips, and four RBI's while Gunter collected a single and double as did Tresik.

A six-run seventh inning lifted Franklin to a 7-6 victory in the second game as Dennis Smith got credit for the win in relief of Beer. Beer lasted 3 and two-thirds innings, then was relieved by Smith who pitched to the bottom of the seventh and was yanked after giving up two runs. Wilkins came in and squelched the fire and got credit for the save.

Hollandsworth's third homer of the series sparked the Franklin seventh inning rally. Tresik then followed with a single and Gunter cracked a run-scoring base hit.

Urban walked and Pederson came through with a two-run double which put the Patriots ahead for the first time. Nelson Yanick also singled, scoring one run. Ken Scarpace walked and with runners on first and third, Franklin pulled off a double steal.

Franklin will resume conference action on Friday when it hosts John Glenn. Glenn is still seeking its first win in the league.

On Saturday, Franklin will test Plymouth Canton, considered one of the top teams in the area and state this season.

Run, Charlie, Run

Picking up steam is Salem's Charlie Johnson who races to third en route home for one of the runs that helped humble Wayne Memorial 16-5 in the opening game of a doubleheader. Wayne won the nightcap 9-1.

Smith finishes 1st at Ohio S. Relays

Three former All-Area tracksters, wearing Eastern Michigan University colors, fared well at the Ohio State Relays.

Dave Smith, a former Wayne Memorial track standout, placed first in the six-mile run with a superb 27:59.3 clocking. The victory qualified Smith to run in the NCAA university division championships.

Belleville's versatile Garrard Pettus cleared 7-feet in the high jump to finish second in the event, and Wes Teeple, a Westland John Glenn graduate, became only the fifth person in EMU history to clear 16 feet in the pole vault.

The 19-year-old sophomore's performance earned for him a third place.

Meanwhile, Glenn Ambrose started the EMU season strong as he helped the Hurons post impressive victories over Ball State. EMU crushed Ball State 17-8 in the first game of a doubleheader then won the nightcap, 8-3.

Ambrose, a former All-Area cager-ball player from Wayne Memorial, finished the weekend with eight hits in 15 trips, 8 rbi's and a homer.

Birk off to good golf start at EMU

It's a long way from the Western Wayne High School Golf Invitational to the Kepler Invitational but Tim Birk made the transition a memorable one. Birk, who was Belleville's No. 1 golfer a couple of years ago, fired respectable scores of 82-79-79 for a 240 total to lead Eastern Michigan University golfers at the Ohio State meet.

The 18-year-old freshman is considered one of the top EMU prospects this season.

Brothers Winekoff win gold medals

The Spartans' Wrestling Club produced two gold medalists and six finalists at the Southeast Michigan Wrestling Association state tournament.

Crowned champs were Carl Winekoff and his brother Rick who captured first places in the 126 and 140 pound classes for wrestlers 13 and 14 years old.

The YMCA wrestlers also received a third place performance from Paul Rossler in the 13-14 age group. He wrestled at 95-pounds.

Bruce Rossler was runner-up in the 105-pound classification for 11-12 year olds while Dave West finished third at 60-pounds in the 9-10 age group.

The YMCA sponsored Spartans also had a third place with Pat Dudek's efforts in the 72-pound class for eight and under wrestlers.

The Spartans are looking forward to several AAU tournaments which will lead to the AAU National Championships to be staged in July.

An independent survey of Detroit's supermarket chains proved:

Romulus Public Library
11121 Wayne Road
Romulus, Mich. 48174

Chatham's Meat Prices Lowest Satisfied customers proved Chatham's High Quality

PROVEN HIGH QUALITY

When you sell more meat per store than any other supermarket chain in town, it means you have more satisfied customers. Chatham guarantees satisfaction and here's how we do it:

1. CORN-FED - Chatham selects only corn-fed cattle for better tenderness and flavor.
2. FRESHNESS - Fresh meat is juicier and tastes better and because we sell more, we restock more often.
3. LESS FAT - Chatham Fresh-Cut is carefully selected to give you less fat and less bone per pound

PROVEN LOW PRICES

Recently a nationally recognized research team spent four weeks in all of Detroit's major supermarket chains. They compared prices on dozens of the meat items you buy most: things like hamburger, sirloin, pork chops, lamb chops, chicken, bacon, ham and lunch meats. When the bills were added up, Chatham was lower priced than any other supermarket chain in town.

CHATHAM

No wonder Chatham sells more meat per store than any supermarket chain in town.

USING YOUR BEAN... COFFEE, THAT IS

Black, with cream or milk, sweetened, hot or iced...any way you look at it, coffee is one of the most popular beverages around. Over 450 million cups of it consumed daily in the U.S. are evidenced of this. Yet, regardless of what you put into coffee or leave out of it, a good cup of coffee is largely dependent on the kind you select, and how you brew it. To get maximum flavor and freshness for your money, try these pointers on your next cupful.

MIND THE GRIND

Three basic coffee grinds are made, each for a different type of coffeemaker. Matching the right grind to your coffeemaker is essential. Vacuum or fine grind goes into vacuum coffeemakers and those that brew in 1 to 4 minutes; drip grind is for the drip pots or dripolators which brew in 4 to 6 minutes; and regular grind goes into the pots that brew in over 6 minutes.

SIZE IT UP RIGHT

Coffee is an exception to the rule that the biggest value for the money. This is true only if you can use the coffee within a week or so after opening, because coffee quickly loses its freshness and flavor after it has been opened. Storing coffee grounds in the refrigerator or freezer instead of the cupboard is considered by some a help in retaining coffee's freshness.
